ELLZEY LEADS IN MISSISSIPPI OVER COLLIER

Trailing Candidate Holds Primary Illegal With Redistricting.

DEMOCRATIC VOTE STATUS IS IN DOUBT

Most of Incumbents Ahead With Some Counties Not Casting Ballots.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—On partial returns from today's Democratic primary in the new Seventh District Representative Russell Ellzey was leading Representative J. Will Collier, chairman of the House ways means committee, by nearly 6,500 votes.

Collier requested the Democrats not to vote for him in the primary as he wished to run for reelection from the State at large in the November general election on his claim that the State redistricting law was illegal.

Returns from 143 out of 280 precincts in the district gave Collier 2,890 and Ellzey 9,411. Five counties, on Collier's request, dropped his name from today's ballot.

The new Seventh District combined Collier's district with that of Ellzey.

Most of Incumbents Lead.

Partial returns from the other districts showed all incumbents ahead of their challengers, with the exception of the Sixth, where Representative Robert S. Hall was running third to W. M. Colmer, of Pascagula, and T. Webber Wilson, of Laurel.

With an appeal to Justice Cardozo, of the United States Supreme Court, to suspend a Federal Court injunction against the Mississippi congressional redstricting act, Democratic voters of the State today cast their ballots by districts for candidates for Congress, the State Supreme Court and the State Highway Commission.

The redistricting act was declared unconstitutional on the claim of S. C. Broom, a candidate for Congress from the State at large, that its reapportionment was unequal and the court issued an injunction, restraining the secretary of state from certifying the nominees from today's primary for the November general election ballot.

Status in Doubt.

The issue involved the preponderance of district candidates who stuck by the orders of the State Democratic executive committee to vote by districts and candidates at large who declared the primary an illegal procedure and made plans to enter the general election by petition.

With the question generally confused in the public mind, some counties held no congressional primary at all, others listed both district and at-large candidates and others hed only the district candidates on their ballot.

J. A. Lauderdale, first assistant attorney general who defended the Blair-White redistricting act before the Federal court, announced today that a supersedeas appeal from the primary injunction had been taken before the United States Supreme Court and that Justice Cardozo next Friday in New York would give a hearing to the application to suspend the injunction, pending a final Supreme Court ruling.

There were more than 30 candidates in today's district races, the nominees from which the State committee hopes to place on the November ballot as candidates from the State-at-large in case the Federal injunction stands.

Station Agent, 70, Is Killed by Auto

Naval Officer Detained in East Falls Church Crossing Death.

An automobile which dashed around a line of traffic at the East Falls Church crossing of the Washington & Old Dominion Railway last night struck and fatally injured George B. M. Arnold, 70, station agent. The man was in the center of the road stopping traffic for the 5:45 o'clock train to Bluemont. He died at Georgetown Hospital at 11:30 o'clock last night.

A naval recruiting officer, Earl Stanley Culver, 35, on his way home to Blacksburg, W. Va., was held under $1,000 bond by Arlington County police in connection with the accident. He and his wife had just checked out of a hotel in Washington a short time before the accident. They were traveling through here from Ohela, Pa., where Culver is stationed.

Arnold was taken to Georgetown Hospital. He suffered a fracture of the right arm and both legs, fractures of three ribs and body cuts and bruises.

Poling Lauds Hoover; Curtis Tells of Gains

Vice President States G. O. P. Victory in West Is Likely.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Vice President Charles Curtis told President Hoover yesterday that conditions in the West were favorable to Republican victory at the polls in November.

The Vice President's estimation was given the President in the course of a discussion following the first Cabinet meeting the Vice President has attended in some time.

Ordinarily vice presidential candidates may be comparatively unimportant members of the supporting cast, but in the present campaign Vice President Curtis and Speaker John N. Garner are costarring with the presidential candidates, and Mr. Curtis used his attendance at the Cabinet meeting yesterday to speak from the resonant White House rostrum.

He said President Hoover's speech had been received enthusiastically through the West. No mention had been made, in the course of the conversation, of his own declaration

Allied Dry Forces and President Declared on Common Ground.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Reserving the right to follow their own course in Congress when modification legislation is presented, the Allied Forces for Prohibition yesterday announced their support of President Hoover in the present campaign.

In making public the results of the national vote of the executive committee, Dr. Daniel A. Poling, the chairman, said the decision was reached by an overwhelming tally. Out of 231 men and women on the executive committee, which represents more than a million members in affiliated dry organizations, a total of 192 voted in favor of supporting the Republican national ticket, Dr. Poling said.

"It is Mr. Hoover's determination to meet our great issue constructively," the announcement said in summarizing the allied forces' interpretation of the President's acceptance address. "His frankness in making his own conviction clear, his commitment to preserve all gains and to strive after the correction of all

GIFT TO WALKER ONE OF SEVERAL, BLOCK ASSERTS

Publisher Says He Aided Numerous Friends in Bull Market Days.

STOCK DEAL EARNED $246,000 FOR MAYOR

Gov. Roosevelt Also Questions Financier on Business With Sherwood.

Executive Chamber, Albany, N. Y., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Paul Block, the publisher, who financed a stock account which made a profit of $246,000 for Mayor James J. Walker, testified at today's session of the Walker ouster hearing that he never had a city contract or asked Mr. Walk for a favor.

Gov. Roosevelt, eager to complete the hearing, which has continued nine days, continued the session late today beyond the dinner hour.

Block said, under questioning by the governor, who will pass on Walker's fitness to retain his office, that he had invested $140,000 in a concern which experimented with tile for subways.

Block, a small, dark-complexioned, middle-aged man, was closely examined by the governor about his dealings with the Beyer Corporation, headed by Dr. Robert M. Beyer. He declared he did not know State Senator John J. Hastings was an officer of the company. Block added that he was to receive 50 per cent of the profits and "supposed" Dr. Beyer would receive the rest. Hastings, a friend of the mayor, was also interested in a bus franchise.

Second Business Deal.

"Do you often engage in business transactions of that sort?" the governor asked.

"In 1927 and 1928 I did," Block answered.

A second business deal, explained by Samuel Ungerleider, financier, another witness, also brought questioning from the governor. Ungerleider said he let Russell T. Sherwood, missing accountant, have $32,000 worth of stock which he sold back for the same amount, although it had lost $21,000 of its value. There was no record of the guarantee against loss, Ungerleider said, and Mr. Roosevelt asked:

"Was that a customary thing?"

The witness answered, "Yes."

"You tell me," the governor persisted, "that that is the usual practice on the stock exchange in New York?"

"It is not the usual practice, but it is common," Ungerleider replied "Among us on the street a man's word is his bond."

Explains Agreement.

Martin Conboy, Roosevelt's counsel, asked why such a verbal agreement was entered into and Ungerleider answered it was because Sherwood was a friend of J. J. McKeon, "who had favored us in some transactions in Philadelphia." McKeon, Samuel Sea-

HOOVER TO ASK JOB SPREADING IN TRADE TALK

Also Will Stress Easing of Credit Strain at Parley Here.

INDUSTRY LEADERS ON WAY TO CAPITAL

President Views Conference Friday as Major Link in Drive on Slump.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday took steps to center the national business and industrial conference meeting here Friday upon improvising means for easing the credit strain and spreading employment.

Members of some of the twelve business and industrial committees which will take part already were en route to the Capital yesterday as preliminary plans for the gathering were made known.

The President regards the conference as a major part in his effort toward "organizing the private industrial and financial resources of the country to cooperate effectively with the vast governmental instrumentalities," in order that the Nation "may move from defense to powerful attack upon the depression." These were the words of his acceptance address.

Limit on Activities.

The Chief Executive feels, however, that to throw the entire economic situation before the conference or to open the meeting to representatives of all business, labor and agricultural organizations would result in a diffusion of power.

He therefore intends to limit it strictly to members of the business and industrial committees comprised of outstanding men in each of the 12 Federal Reserve Districts, and to place the two main objectives before them.

Mr. Hoover was represented as believing that the credit strain of the entire world now has so relaxed that the time is ripe for a coordinated loosening up of credit in the United States. What specific plan the President has in mind was not disclosed, but he has been informed that many businesses have been unable to obtain credit even though meeting ordinary terms.

Spreading of Employment.

Secondly, the President believes that employment properly may be spread at this time not only through speeding up business but through spreading existing jobs. He feels that the five-day week should properly include staggering employment into shorter shifts, and even into four and three-day weeks.

Under immediate plans for the conference Mr. Hoover will preside over the opening session Friday. In addition to delivering the opening address he will call upon secretaries Mills and Chapin, Gov. Meyer, of the Federal Reserve Board; Chairman Pomerene, of the Reconstruction Corporation; Chairman Fort, of the Home Loan Bank System, and Paul Bestor, farm loan commissioner, to explain to the business men moves already undertaken by the Government to alleviate the economic situation.

After this series of brief addresses, the President plans to have the business and industrial leaders confer among themselves to coordinate their own activities on a national scale.

Tomorrow, the day before the conference opens, the chairman of the twelve business and industrial committees will meet with a majority of the Government leaders named as an executive committee to plan details of the conference. The conference itself probably will last two days.

Rover Acts to Ban Sale of Brevities

Issues Order for Arrest of District News Company Official.

United States Attorney Leo A. Rover yesterday ordered the arrest of Joseph Ottenstein, of the District News Co., because of distribution by his company of issues of the Washington Brevities for the current week. Mr. Rover found objectionable matter in the issue yesterday shortly after it had made its appearance on local newsstands and his order was issued promptely.

An order directing precinct captains to have all copies of the offending weekly appearing on news stands seized and marked for identification was issued by L. I. H. Edwards, acting superintendent of police. The order said arrests should not be made.

Later in the day, Policeman J. O. Patton, of the Crime Prevention Bureau, arrested George Joseph Winters, 31, of 5400 Seventh street northwest, who was charged with possession of obscene literature. He was released on bond of $500.

Search Fails to Find Woman, Air Suicide

Jobless Teacher Leaps 1,800 Feet From Chartered Plane.

The search for the body of the woman, believed to be Miss Marjorie Fletcher, 37-year-old high-school teacher, who yesterday leaped 1,800 feet from a Washington-Hoover Airport sightseeing plane while near Annapolis, Md., was temporarily abandoned at dusk when searchers failed to find any trace of the body.

The description of the area near where the woman fell, as given by Roger Scott, pilot of the plane and noted parachute jumper, could have been any one of the several sections of the county near the South and Severn Rivers, said Sheriff R. Glenn Prout, of Anne Arundel County.

Despondency over the recent death of her mother in Forestville, N. Y., and her inability to obtain work are believed to have caused her to commit suicide, according to Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. McConaughy, both Government employes, with whom Miss Fletcher lived at 4715 Forty-eighth street northwest.

Scott, a pilot of the Atlantic Seaboard Airlines, said the woman leaped from the open cockpit of the plane

FOUR U.S.-OSLO FLIERS OVERDUE IN FOG AND RAIN

HARBOR GRACE FIELD LIGHTED BY FLARES

"Flying Family" Arrives at St. John; Two More Craft Poised for Flight.

New York, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—The New York Times' radio station received a message from Thor Solberg and Carl Petersen at 6 p. m. (Eastern standard time) saying they intended to circle around until a fog lifted.

Ninety minutes previously the fliers, who left New York today for Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, en route to Norway, reported their position as approximately 80 miles from their goal.

"Fighting 40-mile head wind since leaving Nova Scotia," the message said, "and still fighting it. Very rough. All well."

The 6 o'clock message said: "We have storm and fog now. We can't go down. We have gas for seven or eight hours, so will circle around till it gets better. Please try to find out if Harbor Grace has any light beacons."

Driving Rain and Fog.

Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—A driving rain and an impenetrable fog encompassed this haven of transatlantic fliers tonight as feeble flares beckoned, apparently in vain, for two airplanes long overdue.

The planes of Thor Solberg and Clyde Lee, who with companions set out today from New York and Vermont, respectively, with this port their first destination on projected flights to Oslo, Norway, were unreported through the early night.

Solberg and his companion, Carl Petersen, passed over Hermitage on the southeastern Newfoundland coast, at 5:26 p. m., Eastern standard time, en route to Harbor Grace. Since that time, the night grew darker, the rainfall became heavier and the fog spread its misty blanket between the earth and sky.

Reported 120 Miles Away.

Another report received here said a plane passed over Belleoram, 120 miles away. And yet, three hours later, neither plane had put in an appearance. A flight from Belleoram to Harbor Grace should take about one hour.

Lee, flying with John Bochkon, was not definitely reported from any point over Newfoundland.

Officials of the airport here lighted flares when darkness set in and numerous automobiles, carrying persons who came to greet the two ships, turned on their headlights. It was raining heavily and the wind was east northeast.

George Hutchinson and his "flying family," making a flight from New York to London in leisurely jaunts, landed at St. John at 4:05 p. m. (Eastern standard time). With Hutchinson were his wife and two daughters, Kathryn, 8, and Janet Lee, 6, and a crew consisting of Peter Redpath, navigator; Joseph Ruff, motor engineer; G. J. Altfilisch, radio operator, and Norman W. Alley, cameraman.

They will spend the night in a local hotel and leave for Labrador about 9 a. m. tomorrow if the weather is right. From there they will proceed to England by way of Green-

POST TRACK AWARD IS WON BY ROSEDALE

2,000 Take Part in "Little Olympics;" Second Place to Virginia Avenue.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

Those Washingtonians who for one reason or another were unable to advance on California to witness the Olympic games this year had a not so miniature edition of the great athletic carnival presented to them yesterday within the sun-baked confines of Central High stadium when the District Playground Department's tenth annual track meet was run off with 2,000 youths in action.

The Washington Post Trophy went to Rosedale Playgrounds for the third year in succession, as four stout-hearted little relay teams shouldered the colors of the Northeast recreation center to the fore in the last few thrilling moments of six solid hours of athletic endeavor. Scoring 35½ points, Rosedale, coached by the bespectacled Ben Kail, left behind Virginia Avenue, with 23½, and Bancroft, with 17, as her four relay teams bore 20 points down the dusty cinder track and deposited them into the laps of the officials in a grand garrison finish.

Five records crumpled under the all-day-long attack on established marks.

Closely fashioned after the celebrated Olympic games, the gigantic field meet opened early in the morning with all 2,000 contestants parading around the big arena, with their respective playground banners in the lead, while Dr. Luther Reichel-

'AL' SMITH BECOMES EDITOR OF MAGAZINE

Eschews Political Questions on Job in Charge of New Outlook.

New York, Aug. 23 (A.P.)—"Al" Smith became a magazine editor today.

With a grin on his face and a cigar in one corner of his mouth, he sat in his new office and announced himself that he had been signed up as editor in chief and monthly contributor to the New Outlook.

The monthly magazine is an outgrowth of the Outlook and Independent.

The Outlook, founded in 1865 by Henry Ward Beecher, was at one time the mouthpiece of Theodore Roosevelt, the late President, who was one of its contributing editors.

"No political questions today," Smith said, as he mopped his forehead with a large green handkerchief and took his place for the first time behind his new desk.

"Political questions are out the window today—a thousand times out the window," he added.

But he did answer one.

"Will you attend the mass reception to Gov. Roosevelt at Seagirt, N. J., Saturday?" he was asked.

"No," came the emphatic reply.

Then he waved aside a flood of

Mrs. Edith McCormick's Condition Is Unchanged

Chicago, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—The condition of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick remained unchanged today, so far as physician's bulletin gave indication. It announced she had "a restful night" and "her general condition was the same."

Friends were encouraged, however, by the presence in a public dining room for the first time since it was learned the society leader was suffering from an incurable malady of members of her immediate family. They hitherto had taken luncheon privately in the hotel where she resides.

Reynaud Reaches America for Visit

Member of Tardieu and Laval Cabinets Hopeful of Debt Accord.

New York, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Paul Reynaud, a member of the Tardieu and Laval cabinets, arrived from France today for a vacation of several weeks in Washington and Mexico, and smilingly disclaimed any official mission.

M. Reynaud, who was minister of finance, expressed optimism over the outlook for an agreement leading to cancellation of war debts owed the United States, but declined to discuss the situation at any length. "I think America is coming to realize more and more the importance of international cooperation," he said. "Do I think America eventually will agree to cancellation? Well, I'll tell you more about that after I've been here a while."

The French statesman will represent his country's bar association at the coner stone laying for the new Supreme Court Building in Washington.

Reynolds' Elder Brother Now in Winston-Salem

Winston-Salem, N. C., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—R. J. ("Dick") Reynolds, elder brother of Smith Reynolds, young tobacco heir who was shot to death at the family estate here July 6, arrived in Winston-Salem late today.

Reynolds arrived here by automobile from Miami, Fla., accompanied by his attorney, Stratton Coyner. Coyner announced the arrival and said that he would try to arrange for a press conference with the tobacco heir tomorrow morning.

Farm Strike Steps Taken In Wisconsin and Nebraska

Dairymen Gather at Madison and Vote for Calling of State-Wide Mass Meeting; Group Breaks Seal on Sioux City Car and Routs Hogs.

Sioux City, Iowa, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Farmers participating in the blockade of Sioux City as part of the farm holiday movement again interfered, authorities said, with transportation of live stock by train tonight.

About 50 men unloaded a carload of hogs in the yards at Danbury, Iowa, about 40 miles from here.

The men broke the seal on a car, officers said, opened the door and chased the hogs back into the stock yards shortly after they had been loaded, awaiting the arrival of a freight train. Their owner reloaded them into his truck and returned to his farm. Members of the Northwestern Railroad train crew obtained the names of those taking part in the action.

At Concord, Nebr., farmers prevented shipment of two cars of live stock by train.

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—As softening of its campaign from compulsion to persuasion was demanded in several sectors, the farmers' holiday movement rolled on today into new territory.

Wisconsin, hitherto aloof to the drive to achieve higher prices for farm produce which has blockaded the Sioux City, Iowa, and Omaha, Nebr., markets, as well as many lesser trading centers, today took steps toward organizing a State unit of the holiday association. Dairymen meeting at Madison with the State Council of Agriculture voted appointment of a committee of three to call a State-wide organization mass meeting.

A movement aimed at the important South St. Paul, Minn., live stock market, the largest of that State, also was under way with the forming of a Dakota County unit of the holiday association.

Other major developments in the farmers' strike on its expanding battle fronts included:

DUNCAN LOSES PLEA TO QUASH EVIDENCE

Judge Overrules Motion; State Auditor Takes Stand Today.

After hearing a five-hour argument yesterday afternoon, Judge Walter T. McCarthy overruled a defense motion to throw out the prosecution's evidence in the trial of William H. Duncan in Arlington Circuit Court on a charge of misuse of public funds.

The jury was dismissed during the argument on the motion, which, if it had been granted, would have been nearly the same as quashing the case.

The trial will be resumed this morning at 10 o'clock. C. McCarthy Downs, a State auditor, will be the first witness for the Commonwealth. Judge McCarthy also denied a defense attempt to block Downs' testimony.

Lawrence Douglas, Commonwealth's attorney, and Collins Denny, assistant State's attorney general, said Downs would be their last witness. They said he would be on the stand nearly all day.

The indictment against Duncan charges that he misused $7,815 received by the county from the State highway department in connection with a road condemnation.

Little progress was made in the trial during the earlier part of the day because of continual objections raised by Leo P. Harlow, chief of defense counsel.

Prosecution witnesses heard were George F. Downham, vice president of the Citizens' National Bank of Alexandria; George E. Warfield, president of the First National Bank of Alexandria, and Ralph E. Remington, deputy county clerk.

Annapolis to Bar 17 Missouri Youths

Applicants Gave Identical Answers to Questions, Academy Says.

(Associated Press.)

Seventeen Missouri youths never can enter the Annapolis Naval Academy, because they gave identical answers to questions propounded during their examinations for entrance. This was made known yesterday at the Navy Department. The examination took place last April at Columbia, Mo.

After an inquiry, the Navy held the young men to have been guilty of collusion in answering the questions, and barred them from further attempt to enter the academy.

Secretary Adams approved this decision, and the senators and representatives who appointed the candidates were informed of the action. Their names were not made public.

DENMARK REPORTED SET TO END TARIFFS

Nation Said to Plan Start of Sweeping Free Trade Policy Sept. 1.

Montreal, Quebec, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—The Montreal Board of Trade reported today on the basis of "authoritative" information that Denmark would adopt a sweeping free trade policy beginning September 1.

The Danish consul-general in Montreal could not confirm the announcement although he understood unofficially that officials of the Danish National Bank in Copenhagen had issued a statement to that effect.

Cattle, fodder, coffee, rice, raw tobacco, seeds and fruits, pig iron and raw materials would be admitted free to Denmark under the new policy, it was said, thus creating one of the most lucrative markets in Europe.

Discussing Denmark's proposed policy a member of the board of trade said it came "as a result of the imperial economic conference at Ottawa."

Today's announcement was interpreted as breakup of trade relations established by the Oslo convention which bound Denmark, Sweden, Norway, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg under a preferential customs duties agreement.

Mollison's Bride Plans East-West Ocean Flight

Hamble, England, Aug. 23 (U.P.).—Amy Johnson Mollison, bride of the first man to fly alone on the westward route over the Atlantic Ocean, announced tonight that she hopes to make a solo flight from England to the United States in September.

"I want to be the first woman to make the east-west crossing of the Atlantic, and I want to make it solo," Mrs. Mollison said, predicting that her husband, Capt. James A. Mollison, who is now in New York preparing to fly back to England, would object to her plan.

Attempts to Blow Up Fast Trains Disclosed

Little Rock, Ark., Aug 23 (A.P.).—Two attempts to wreck fast passenger trains of the Missouri Pacific and Rock Island railroads by blowing them up with dynamite were disclosed today by police who are combining all agencies for investigating.

Early this morning the Memphis-Californian of the Rock Island exploded a bomb under the tracks and a section of rails was torn up, but the blast failed to wreck the train. Late last night a limited train of the Missouri Pacific ran over a huge deposit of dynamite, but it did not explode because of a faulty cap.

Lethal Gas Kills Scientist Spraying House for Moths

An experimental fumigation of a house at 211 Albany avenue, Takoma Park, Md., with hydrocyanic gas, one of the most deadly chemicals known, yesterday took the life of George W. Ellington, 36, an entomologist of the Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Ellington and an assistant were using the lethal gas—the same used for the execution of the death penalty in Nevada—to rid the house of moths. J. W. Hite owns the house.

It is thought the gas mask used by Mr. Ellington leaked. He was found in the basement. The Silver Spring Fire Rescue Squad was unable to revive him. He was pronounced dead at Walter Reed Hospital, where he was removed.

Mr. Ellington lived at 8102 Sligo avenue, Silver Spring, Md. He had been with the Department of Agriculture for the last ten years.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lydia Ellington; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Ellington, of Lexington, Miss.; two brothers, Dewey and Claude Ellington, and a sister, Mrs. Ander McClellan, all of Mississippi.

REICH HOLDS GROUND IN DEATH SENTENCES

New Manifesto Declares It Will Not Be Coerced by Nazis' Protests.

Berlin, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—The German government swiftly met an attack by Adolf Hitler tonight by issuing a manifesto declaring that severest penalties for political violence would be invoked "against every lawbreaker, regardless of person or party."

This manifesto was in answer to Hitler's vigorous assault on death sentences imposed yesterday on five of his followers who were found guilty by one of the government's emergency speed courts of a political murder.

"Heaven may send us torture upon torture, but our movement will be able to finish this guillotine government," Hitler declared.

A few hours after he had issued his fiery statement the governments of the Reich and of the State of Prussia joined in a manifesto which, without mentioning him, obviously was aimed at the Nazi leader.

"Acts of violence which seriously prejudiced the authority of the Reich necessitated President von Hindenburg's emergency decree of August 9 providing severest penalties for political violence," the manifesto said.

To Use Full Power.

"The terms of that decree must be imposed the same moment they were put into effect against every lawbreaker, regardless of person or party. The Reich's government will use all its power to make the law respected by every one and will not allow any one to revolt against it."

Emphasizing that the government was not willing to yield to political pressure in dealing with the five death sentences imposed by the speed court at Beuthen, the manifesto concluded:

"Violent charges against the verdict should be addressed to the originators of bloody occurrences and not to the government which in the interest of all had to resort to such sharp measures. The government will nip in the bud all attempts to tamper with the principles of the constitutional state and to incite political passions."

Before this manifesto was issued the government made it clear that it would not permit justice to be coerced and that it "would not stand for political pressure but would decide solely on the basis of justice whether or not to grant pardons."

Beuthen today was a place of feverish excitement. A great crowd, the majority of which consisted of uniformed Nazis, assembled in the streets discussing the death penalties, the first imposed under the government's emergency regulations.

Four Nazis Arrested.

Four National Socialists were arrested in the course of the day for trying to form demonstrations in separated parts of Beuthen, but no disorders were reported despite the fact that a heavy crowd gathered in the streets.

The five condemned men, convicted by an emergency "speed" court at Beuthen of killing a Communist in a political brawl, have become the center of a violent controversy. Open threats of reprisals have been voiced by Nazi leaders and every bit of strength the Hitlerites can muster will be used in the fight to save the lives of the men who have become "martyrs" to their cause.

All this Nazi agitation has served to stiffen the position of the government which issued the emergency decree establishing "speed" courts to deal with political violence and providing the death penalty in extreme cases.

At the Prussian ministry of justice it was said that there seemed to be one compromise which would satisfy both the government and the Hitlerites, without requiring either to back down.

The slaying for which the men were condemned took place 90 minutes after the emergency decree providing the death penalty became effective, it was pointed out. A ministerial spokesman said if the men could prove they were ignorant of the decree they could petition for a new trial, which would be held in an ordinary court instead of a "speed" court.

Virginian's Death Still Is Mystery

'Causes Unknown' Blamed After Finding of Body Near Charlottesville.

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—A verdict of death "from causes unknown" was returned by Magistrate W. B. Colthurst, of Charlottesville, after viewing the body of William H. Starke, 36, found lying in a field on the Garland farm near here late Saturday.

His brother, Ernest, with whom he lived, said William had left home about noon to collect a debt from a Negro several miles distant.

The body was found by a Negro boy. Indications were that he had engaged in a struggle.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT IN WEST, CURTIS REPORTS TO HOOVER

against repeal of the prohibition amendment, made in his acceptance speech in Kansas, Mr. Curtis said.

Although tired and in need of a rest, the Vice President let it be known that he had interests in other parts of the country than in his native Kansas. He was going to visit a daughter, Mrs. C. P. George, at Nantucket, Mass., and another daughter, Mrs. Webster Knight, at her home in Providence, R. I., he announced. If it should transpire that the people of those parts wanted to know him a little better, it is expected the visiting candidate would be glad to have them learn.

Meanwhile, Speaker Garner is down home, in Uvalde, Tex., but he is expected to start out on his campaign tour about September 10 with a speech in Texas, to be followed by another in an important Southern city farther east, probably Atlanta. From there it is planned for him to head north and let New England get a close-up of the Democratic vice presidential candidate, against whom the Republicans have leveled a veritable bombardment.

So heavy was the bombardment of Mr. Garner that it almost seemed at times as if he were the Democratic presidential candidate instead of the party's candidate for the job which is spoken of so lightly as an official living tomb. He was charged with everything from deep-red "radicalism" to bolting his party's ticket in the last campaign and voting against former Gov. Al Smith.

The barrage laid down on Speaker Garner, in truth, was not so much because he was vice presidential nominee as it was due to the place he held as Speaker in the last session of Congress, the first in which the Democrats had a majority in the House since the days of Woodrow Wilson. The warfare which was begun then has continued vigorously.

Recently the Democrats have begun firing a few shells in the direction of Mr. Curtis, the Republican nominee to succeed himself, and criticism of the Kansan by Democratic spokesmen has been increasing.

One result of this phase of the campaign has been to center public attention on the vice presidential nominees to a greater extent than in any other campaign for a long time. The average voter who can't recall off-hand the name behind which he placed his mark for Vice President four years ago will have no difficulty in recalling that Charles Curtis and John N. Garner were the vice presidential candidates of their parties in 1932.

Delinquency of Boys Lies In Stealing and Mischief

Running Away, Truancy and Sex Offenses Principal Charges Against Girls in Juvenile Court, Children's Bureau Finds in Report for 1930.

(Associated Press.)

Stealing and acts of carelessness or mischief were reported by the Children's Bureau yesterday to have accounted for 71 per cent of the charges that took boys into juvenile courts in 1930.

Running away, truancy and sex offenses were responsible for most of the girls' cases. The number of girls taken to the courts was much smaller than the number of boys.

Offenses having to do with liquor or drugs, the bureau said, accounted for only 1 per cent of the 53,757 delinquency cases reported in 1930 by 88 of the 92 juvenile courts.

On the basis of reports from eighteen courts in areas having populations of 100,000 or more, the bureau found that juvenile delinquency increased in 1930 as compared to the three-year period, 1927-29. It noted, however, a drop in 1931.

Five of the eighteen areas reported a lower rate for 1930. The decrease was large only in Marion County, Ind., and Westchester County, N. Y.

In nine of the eleven areas reporting increased delinquency, the increase was found statistically "significant." The nine were Ramsey County, Minn.; Hudson and Mercer Counties, N. J.; Buffalo and New York, N. Y.; Hamilton County, Ohio, and Montgomery County and Philadelphia, and Pierce County, Wash. The rates for Erie County, N. Y., and Norfolk, Va., remained unchanged.

The District of Columbia and Westchester County, N. Y., reported the ratio of girls to boys smaller. Lake County, Ind., Buffalo and Philadelphia reported the ratio greater.

In two-thirds of the boys' cases, but in less than one-half of the girls', the children lived with both their parents when taken to court.

HOOVER PROHIBITION STAND IS PRAISED BY DR. POLING

abuses, his restatement of the functioning of our Government, and his unswerving loyalty to that high end in human betterment which is our only objective, give now added courage for the fight ahead."

In a press interview at his suite in the Willard following distribution of the formal announcement of the executive committee's action, Dr. Poling characterized Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic presidential nominee, as "decisively a personal dry and decisively a political wet."

Asked how he would classify President Hoover, Poling answered: "Decisively a personal dry and decisively in sympathy with the larger objectives of our program."

The formal announcement of the executive committee's stand comprised excerpts from a telegram sent to the President on August 15, congratulating him on his acceptance address, and the Chief Executive's answer of August 22. In his response, President Hoover told the Allied Forces: "We are on common ground in a desire to rid this civilization of the evil effects of the liquor traffic."

Text of Telegram.

The text of Dr. Poling's telegram follows in full:

"Your speech of acceptance is a document of statesmanship. It is clear-cut and courageous. I disagree with some of your conclusions, but believe your reelection will safeguard the gains made under the eighteenth amendment, will defeat naked repeal, will preserve the principle of Federal control of a national problem and will be a long step toward answering one of the Nation's gravest social questions. You have restated for us the great fact of American government which is at once a Federal government and a government of sovereign States, a representative government whose life principle is majority rule. Here lie values that transcend a single issue and the preservation of which will advance the interest of every worthy cause. I march with you."

To this telegram, President Hoover replied by letter under date of August 22, as follows:

"I deeply appreciate your telegram and the spirit and understanding which animate it.

On Common Ground.

"There are many moral and spiritual problems before us, to which you have given so many years of devoted service. We are on common ground in a desire to rid this civilization of the evils of the liquor traffic. We may not all agree on method as I have come to the belief that we must, through constructive and not destructive changes, revive the energies of the States to deal with the new evils, with Federal constitutional guarantees against the return of the old evils. We must drive steadily toward disarmament and world peace. We must fight for economic recovery, not only for its material values, but we must secure from this period a revaluation of the purposes of life and shift our drift from materialism to a higher note of individual and national ideals. We must awaken a sense of national consciousness of the purpose of life itself. We must contend every moment for the wider development of free men and women through the one road to that end: that is, loyalty to a century and a half of our own American inspirations.

"Again I wish to express my appreciation for the friendship of yourself and your colleagues."

The letter was addressed to Dr. Poling, in his capacity as chairman of the allied forces.

Policy Is Summarized.

After setting forth the texts of the exchange, the announcement continued with this summary of the committee's policy for the presidential campaign:

"The President's letter confirms us in the judgment and good faith with which we reached, by an overwhelming national vote, our conclusion to support his candidacy. Beyond all questions that vex the Nation now, he reminds us that 'the spirit giveth life.'

"It is Mr. Hoover's determination to meet our great issue constructively. His frankness in making his own conviction clear, his commitment to preserve all gains and to strive after the correction of all abuses, his restatement of the functioning of our Government, and his unswerving loyalty to that high end in human betterment which is our only objective, give new added courage for the fight ahead.

Have Met Challenge.

"Without prejudice to our fundamental position on the principles involved and without prejudice to any future program that may be adopted, we have met the challenge of the present crisis. I believe that the elections in November will both advance our cause and confirm our battle strategy.

"We have said in every State of the Union that we are for the eighteenth amendment and for liberty with law. We have also said that we recognize a deepseated, honest difference of opinion; that not 'all God's children' are on our side; that we believe in majority rule; and that, because we are trying to be good citizens, we are for prohibition. Again and again we have repeated that new occasions teach new duties. Now, whatever else may come of our action, we have kept the faith.

"Since our vote was taken, some have expressed dissent, but allied forces throughout the country have given our action overwhelming indorsement. This indorsement is already a rising tide that will, I believe, directly and largely affect election results in many States."

Replies to Questions.

Immediately following the release of the committee statement, Dr. Poling submitted himself to an intensive fire of interpretive cross-examination by a score of newspapermen.

He acknowledged that while the allied forces would support the President's suggestion for a "constructive change," their field forces would seek at the same time to elect antirepeal members to the House and Senate. But he saw no conflict of principle here, he continued, for the one all-important objective of the campaign strategy will be to "preserve the genuine gains made under the eighteenth amendment."

Speakers Fund Ready.

A speakers fund of approximately $65,000 already is available in the treasury of the Allied Forces and it is expected that additional thousands will be contributed through the affiliated organizations as the campaign warms up.

The executive committee has not been able to agree upon any specific legislative program to improve prohibition conditions, Dr. Poling said.

"As strategy of the campaign we have decided to support Mr. Hoover, with recognized widespread differences of opinion within our ranks as to what program should be followed in Congress."

Oceanic Aviators Greet Mollison

Lindbergh Talks Shop With Scotsman Prior to Dinner Party.

New York, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Transatlantic trail blazers, westward and eastward, were introduced today at a quiet meeting arranged between Capt. James A. Mollison and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Col. Lindbergh went to the Park Avenue apartment of Andrew F. Carter, oil company executive, to meet the Scotsman and "talk shop" before a dinner party there for the new flying hero. Col. Lindbergh did not remain for the dinner.

Mollison was greatly pleased yesterday when he received a telegraphed message from Lindbergh congratulating him on his "splendid achievement" in the first westward solo flight across the Atlantic.

"I shall treasure this," he said, folding it carefully back into the envelope.

Silver Issue Listed For World Parley

President Will Appoint Mining Representative to Economic Meeting.

Salt Lake City, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—President Hoover today assured Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, that the silver question would be discussed at the world economic conference, and that he would select some one representing the silver point of view as a member of the American delegation.

Senator Smoot made public the following telegram from the President:

"I have your inquiry as to whether it has been finally settled that the silver question will be dealt with at the forthcoming world economic conference and as to the constitution of the American delegation to the conference."

MILLS SEES BANKING GROUPS IN NEW YORK

Secretary May Be Planning Loan of $712,000,000 Needed by U. S.

New York, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Ogden L. Mills, Secretary of the Treasury conferred with a number of New York bankers today at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, presumably for the purpose of discussing new financing for the Government.

The Government, on September 15, will have to borrow $712,000,000 solely for refunding purposes, and additional amounts, it was stated, will be required to finance the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Those with whom the Secretary of Treasury conferred were said to have included Governor George L. Harrison, of the New York Reserve Bank; Eugene Meyer, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, now in New York, and R. C. Leffingwell, of J. P. Morgan & Co.

One of the questions which was rumored to have been discussed was whether it would be advisable for the Government to exercise its rights to call for payment the outstanding $536,000,000, of Liberty First 4 1-2 bonds.

Should the Government decide to call these relatively high interest rate bonds, it was observed, it would be obliged to give notice on September 15. If it elects not to retire them, the Government would not, under the loan contract, have another opportunity to do so before July 15, 1933.

Accounting Asked Of Clarion Power

Federal Commission Orders Utility to Get Consent for New Securities.

(Associated Press.)

For the second time in the last several years, the Federal Power Commission yesterday demanded an accounting from the Clarion River Power Co.

In cooperation with the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission, the Federal Commission ordered the power company to file within 10 days "a complete report on the purported sale of its property to the Pennsylvania Electric Co.," and to refrain from issuing or selling any securities without prior approval by the Federal Commission.

At the same time the commission served similar notice upon the Pennsylvania Electric Co., "either as consumer or successor of the Clarion River Power Co."

Among the items called for in the report was "proof that the purported transfer of property from one subsidiary of the Pennsylvania Electric Corporation to another subsidiary was not designed to impair or destroy the value of the $4,453,000 of preferred stock outstanding of the Clarion River Power Co."

Four Patents Granted To Virginia Inventors

(Associated Press.)

Four patents were awarded Virginia inventors yesterday by the United States Patent Office. Lewis S. Waldron and Trent B. Terry, of Charlottesville, were granted a patent on a fuse cartridge. They applied for their patent in August, 1930.

Bernard Cook, of Roanoke County, patented his invention of a pedestal binder for locomotive frames. Ferdinand G. Salcedo, of Quantico, patented a sound reproducing apparatus for advertising purposes. Webster I. Carpenter, of Norfolk, patented a fluid warmer.

TWO AIRPLANES ARE MISSING ON FLIGHT ACROSS ATLANTIC

land, Iceland and the Faroe Islands, expecting to take five days.

Solberg and Petersen, who took off from New York, and Lee, of Oshkosh, Wis., and Bochkon, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who left from the Barre-Montpelier Airport at Berlin, Vt., were heading for Oslo. The latter pair said the almost simultaneous departure of both planes was not with the intention, on their part, at least, of making a race of the venture.

Two Others Are Poised.

Two other planes were poised in New York for transatlantic crossing.

J. A. Mollison, Scotch flier, who made the first solo flight from Europe to New York last week, had his moth plane ready at Roosevelt Field for the return trip when weather reports met his approval.

A trio composed of William Ulbrich, Dr. Leon Pisculle and Edna Newcomer was prepared to leave New York tomorrow on a nonstop flight to Rome by way of Florence. Miss Newcomer planned to make a parachute jump at Florence in commemoration of Florence Nightingale, the nurse.

When Lee and Bochkon took the air at Berlin only about 100 miles separated them from Solberg and Petersen, who were over Portsmouth, N. H., at that time. Later the Solberg-Petersen plane reported passing over Portland, Me. It was sighted over Port Greville, Nova Scotia, at 12:25 p. m. (E. S. T.). It flew over Hermitage on the southeastern Newfoundland coast at 5:26 p. m. (E. S. T.).

A plane believed to have been that of Lee and Bochkon was sighted over St. John at 1:00 p. m. (E. S. T.).

Leave in Morning.

Solberg and Petersen were the first of the trio to take off, leaving the Floyd Bennett Airport, New York, at 4:41 a. m. (E. S. T.). Lee and Bochkon hopped off from the Barre-Montpelier Airport, at Berlin, Vt., at 9:15 a. m. (E. S. T.), with knowledge of the departure several hours before of Solberg and Petersen.

Hutchinson and his companions went into the air at 10:07 a. m. (Eastern standard time), also from the Floyd Bennett Airport.

Whether reports available when all three flights got under way were favorable for the first leg.

Solberg, a scion of the old Vikings and Petersen, a veteran radio expert, were flying a huge sesquiplane. They planned to refuel here and get away at dawn tomorrow.

The Lee-Bochkon plane, named the Green Mountain Boy, is painted red and carries the inscription "Barre-Montpelier, the Granite Center of the World." Lee and Bochkon planned to put aboard 460 gallons of gasoline here. They figured that would be sufficient for about 4,000 miles or 35 hours flying time. Their objective, Kjeller Field, Oslo, is 3,150 miles from this port.

Quick Getaway Planned.

Like Solberg and Petersen, Lee and Bochkon planned a quick getaway from Harbor Grace. They intended to obtain weather reports from Hubert Huntington, navigator, who was their advisor at the Barre-Montpelier Airport and who remained at that place.

Hutchinson's "flying family" left New York aboard a Sikorsky amphibian, the City of Richmond, intent upon making the flight to London by easy stages. Unless weather conditions were against them, they planned hops on consecutive days from St. John to Labrador, to Greenland, thence to Iceland and finally to London. The distance was estimated at 4,200 miles.

Hutchinson's flight was undertaken with the intention of demonstrating the safety of transatlantic flying over the air-mail route charted by the Government. His plane is powered with two Pratt-Whitney 420-horsepower motors, and has a cruising radius of 7 to 7½ hours at 110 miles an hour.

The Hutchinson plane is painted black and silver with the words "Flying Family" on the fuselage. This has been translated into "Familia Volano" on each side of the plane's nose. On the fuselage also is painted a circle with wings containing heads of a man, a woman and two children. The plane's equipment includes long and short-wave radio sets.

Lee Is Pilot-Commander.

Lee is pilot-commander with Bochkon acting as copilot. Lee, who is only 24 years of age, was formerly a barnstorming pilot associated with the late "Speed" Holman in commercial flying in the West. He has never done any ocean flying.

To Bochkon the flight will be in the nature of a return to his homeland. He is 28 years old and began his flying career with the Norwegian air forces in 1920. He came to America seven years ago. Both he and Lee are unmarried.

Lee and Bochkon included a hacksaw in their equipment so that they could cut the motor away from the body of the ship in the event they were forced down at sea. They prepared for such misfortune by carrying a quantity of concentrated food tablets to give them nourishment if rescue should be long delayed.

They were given a rousing send-off from the Vermont airport by a crowd of more than 1,000 persons which gathered during a three-hour delay in their departure due to heavy fog.

Flight Responsibility Is Refused by Denmark

Copenhagen, Denmark, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—The Danish foreign office formally notified the American Legation today that Denmark must refuse all responsibility in connection with the transatlantic flight of the Hutchinson family, which started from New York today for Europe, by way of Greenland.

It was explained that if there should be an accident over Greenland, it would be exceedingly difficult to provide housing and food for so large a party, and it might be almost impossible to go to their assistance.

It was stated that Mr. Hutchinson's application for permission to fly over Greenland was placed before the Greenland board, but was forwarded to the foreign office inasmuch as it already had been submitted through the usual channels with a recommendation of a recognized scientific society.

Industries Giving Many Back Jobs

Gain in Demands Reported in Varied Trade Lines Over Nation.

(Associated Press.)

Business developments yesterday included:

Hamilton, Ind.—The Hirsch Shirt Corporation has recalled 175 former employes preparatory to capacity operations during the next three months or more.

South Bend, Ind.—The Briteway chain of wall paper and paint stores has announced that it will open its eighth store next week here. Damon Raike, president of the company, announced earnings the first six months were three times those of a like period in 1931.

Cincinnati—The American Rolling Mill Co. plans to start its Ashland, Ky., blast furnace on September 1. It will give employment to approximately 100 men.

New York—A survey recently completed showed 95 textile mills up to August 12 had added 4,061 employes since July 1. Heads of the mills reported that they expected the upturn to carry through for several months, at least.

Britain to Pay Off Big Morgan Loan

$50,000,000 to Wipe Out All Borrowed on Account Abandoning Gold.

New York, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—The British treasury is expected on Saturday to cancel a $50,000,000 line of credit which was set up a year ago with J. P. Morgan & Co. to help that country's banking system over the hazards which resulted later in England being forced off the gold standard.

Great Britain originally obtained $125,000,000 of credits from the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and $100,000,000 from a group of American banks headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. The reserve bank credit was retired earlier this year and half of the $100,000,000 Morgan credit also was expunged. The Saturday cancellation will close the transaction.

Meanwhile, the British treasury has erased a credit of $125,000,000 which it obtained a year ago from the Bank of France and is understood to have retired more than $65,000,000 of a $100,000,000 loan which it obtained through a French banking syndicate.

POISON PUT IN FOOD BLAMED FOR 5 DYING

Police Believe Parent Caused Deaths Following Meal of Pancakes.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Belief that either John Callahan or his wife put enough poison in food to wipe out their entire family of eleven was expressed today by Detective Capt. William Oeltjen as police investigated the deaths of five members of the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Callahan and three of their children, Cecilia, 8; Virginia, 6, and Kenneth, 15 months, died within 24 hours after they ate a breakfast of pancakes and preserves Sunday. Two other children, George, 15, and Dorothy, 4, probably will die, physicians said, as the poison has paralyzed their kidneys.

The deaths were first laid to food poisoning by investigators, but analysis by the city department of health revealed today enough poison powder in the food to kill the entire family. Four other children escaped by not partaking of the breakfast. John, jr., 11, and Leo, 13, had arisen early and left home, and Marie, 20, and Ray, 17, slept late.

Callahan had been out of work for some time. The surviving children said, however, neither he nor his wife appeared despondent or expressed desire to end their lives. Police learned the family had accepted gifts of food from neighbors, but not of cornmeal or flour, from which the pancakes were made, or wild cherry preserves, which comprised the fatal breakfast.

Police Are Asked to Aid In Hunt for A. H. Austin

Police have been asked to aid in locating Arthur H. Austin, 31, who has been missing from his home, 1200 Massachusetts avenue northwest, since Monday morning.

His wife, Mrs. Nellie L. Austin, declared she found his car in the garage with his permit and registration card on the floor.

WOMAN PASSENGER LEAPS FROM PLANE

bearing the name of Mr. McConaughy was found in the plane.

Scott returned to the local airport and with John S. Wynne, airport manager, returned to the vicinity of Annapolis, where they conducted an unsuccessful aerial search for the woman's body. They then joined Sheriff Glen S. Prout and a number of his deputies in ground search.

Mr. and Mrs. McConaughy and their son, Richard, visited the airport after being notified of the finding of Mr. McConaughy's name in the woman's purse, and told officials Miss Fletcher had been living at their home for three months.

Miss Fletcher was a schoolmate of Mrs. McConaughy. Several months ago she resigned her position as a teacher in the Oberlin, Ohio, High School and went to Forestville, N. Y., where her mother was critically ill.

After her mother's death she visited the McConaughys. She had applications pending for several teaching positions, none of which had materialized. On several occasions during the last few months, Mrs. McConaughy said, Miss Fletcher had said, "I don't see why one has to go on living if one doesn't care to."

Early yesterday Miss Fletcher accompanied Mr. and Mrs. McConaughy on their trip to work, and then took their son, Richard, to Emergency Hospital for treatment of an arm injury. Mr. McConaughy is an auditor in the general accounting office and Mrs. McConaughy is a clerk in the War Department.

Later she returned to their home, packed her belongings and set the table only for three persons. At the airport, she told M. A. Crowder, of 3700 Massachusetts avenue, a dispatcher for the Pennsylvania Air Lines, that her uncle had sent her money for her birthday and told her to take an airplane ride.

Micky Cole, 20 years old, of 809 E street northwest, a ticket agent for the Atlantic Seaboard Airlines, which operates the hop-flights at the airport, sold her the ticket for the chartered plane, for which she paid $25. Neither of the airport employes noticed anything unusual about the passenger, except that she was somewhat more composed than the average sightseeing passenger.

Scott, the pilot, also lives at 3700 Massachusetts avenue. At a late hour yesterday, he was still with the searching parties.

The purse found in the plane contained $34, which Mr. McConaughy believes was drawn from a postal savings account, together with $100 which was found in a dresser drawer in their home.

Miss Fletcher's father, Clayton C., lives in Forestville. Her brother, Robert C., is a college professor in Oberlin Ohio.

Airport officials notified Miss Fletcher's father last night.

"I've been expecting it for some time," he said. He is en route here to claim the body.

STATE DEPARTMENT SCORED BY BARKLEY

Kentuckian Answers Castle on Foreign Bond and Security Sales.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, in a statement issued through the Democratic national committee, last night termed "mendacious and misleading" a reply from the State Department denying Franklin D. Roosevelt's reference in his Columbus speech to an "implied understanding" that it had "passed or approved" foreign bonds and securities sold in this country.

The Democratic presidential nominee said he would put an end to the "implied understanding" these foreign issues had been "passed or approved by the State Department or any other agency of the Federal Government." The department, in a statement prepared by Undersecretary William R. Castle, said it never had "approved a single loan."

Barkley, member of the Senate banking committee, said "in connection with the mendacious and misleading statement of the State Department, it is well to remember also that the truth regarding this question is a matter of record in the Senate."

"The facts show an entirely different situation," he added, "and throw an entirely different light on it from that intended by the department in its statement * * *

"The State Department has on numerous occasions given tacit approval to those loans which it did not disapprove, and no investment house or bank in the United States would under present practices touch a foreign issue which had not been referred to and passed on by the State Department. In at least one case it is known that pressure was brought by the State Department on certain banks and investment houses to encourage the sale of the securities of a certain foreign nation."

Barkley recalled that in response to a Senate resolution asking "its authority for approving or disapproving such loans," the department cited article 11 of the Constitution.

"If the Secretary of State had not presumed to approve or disapprove the flotation of foreign securities in the United States," he asked, "why would he cite the Constitution as his authority for so doing?"

He said a resolution proposed by Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, who also has criticized the department's reply to Roosevelt, challenged the department's right to pass on such loans "and ordered it to desist from any such practice."

Stiffkey Rector Denies He Made Wager to Fast

London, Aug. 23 (U.P.).—Dr. Harold A. Davidson, white-haired rector of Stiffkey, who recently was convicted in consistory court on moral charges, got into an argument with a Blackpool showman tonight on whether the rector had agreed to fast for 10 days in a barrel.

Dr. Davidson interrupted his vaudeville appearance at Rochdale to deny the story. The showman, however, insisted that "a man wearing a clerical collar and saying he was the Rector of Stiffkey" had made the agreement. He was promised 500 pounds if he did the stunt.

Eclipse to Aid Scientists In Radio Disturbance Tests

Ohio Wesleyan University Group Will Seek to Learn If Changes in Reception Are Due Principally to Ultra-Violet Light.

Douglas Hill, Me., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—The scientifically puzzling question of whether changes in radio reception by sun spots are due principally to ultra-violet light or to particles shot earthward from the sun will be tested here during the approaching solar eclipse by one expedition which won't care if the day is cloudy.

Of all the many scientific groups assembled in the belt of totality that will sweep across northern New England on August 31, the Perkins Observatory headquarters of the Ohio Wesleyan University will be the only place where a clear sky won't be indispensable.

Of course, it will not be unappreciated, because the Perkins observers hope to take the usual photographs of the solar corona, and they have made some very unusual preparations for doing so, but are concentrating on the causes of radio disturbance.

Investigations at the observatory at Delaware, Ohio, in the last few years have demonstrated the marked effect of sun spots on radio reception.

Dr. Harlan T. Stetson, director of the observatory, believes that if ultra-violet rays are the primary cause of the ionization of the upper atmosphere which turns back the radio waves, a change in the intensity of transmitted radio signals will be noted during the visual eclipse.

If, on the other hand, the ionization of the reflected layers is produced chiefly through bombardment by electrified particles shot off from the sun, then the effect on radio reception of the "electron shadow," should begin nearly two hours before totality and persist much longer than the duration of the eclipse.

In either case, the presence or absence of clouds will have no bearing on the experiment since the Kennelly-Heaviside layer, as the ionized strata is known, is many miles above the highest cloud.

Apparatus is being installed here to measure the signal strength of radio stations and, in addition, a temporary broadcasting station, KIEKL, which has been erected here, will send out continuous wave signals at five minute intervals on a frequency of 3,550 kilocycles starting at 9 a. m., Eastern standard time, and lasting until 6 p. m.

Stetson hopes that amateurs equipped to receive signals on 84.50 meters will listen in and estimate, on a scale of 1 to 9. The relative signal strength received through the day, later forwarding their observations together with the place in which they were made to the eclipse observatory here.

G.O.P. LEADERS MAP NEW ENGLAND DRIVE

Sanders to Announce Part Coolidge Will Take; Roosevelts Active.

New York, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Favorable progress of the New England ballot drive was reported today by Senator Felix Hebert, of Rhode Island, Eastern Republican campaign manager.

He said he expected Everett Sanders, national chairman, to come here Saturday with some announcement of what part former President Coolidge will play in the campaign.

While the speaking bureau was making plans for the stump tour of Theodore Roosevelt, son of the late President and governor of the Philippines, it was announced his mother, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, will take an active part in the campaign.

She will be honorary chairman of the campaign committee of the Women's National Republican Club.

She and Mrs. George A. Wyeth, president, conferred with the club's campaign committee here today. Mrs. Daniel Guggenheim will be treasurer of the group, and Mrs. Samuel A. Berger its secretary.

Senator Hebert said President Hoover's followers, impressed by his acceptance speech, have been trying to prevail upon him to make more than the three addresses he has planned between now and election day.

While it has not been decided where the three speeches will be made, it was said at headquarters that one probably would be in New York and the others in the Middle West. Present plans do not call for one on the Pacific Coast.

SENATOR D. I. WALSH TO BACK ROOSEVELT

Smith Emphatically Says He Will Not Attend Fete for Governor Saturday.

New York, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Another of "Al" Smith's preconvention supporters, Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, threw himself actively behind Gov. Roosevelt's presidential campaign today.

Walsh conferred with James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, for about six hours and announced himself eager "to do anything you think will help bring us victory."

At the same time he said disappointment in New England over the failure of the convention to nominate former Gov. Smith is gradually disappearing.

Less than a mile down the street Smith himself answered with a vigorous "No" a question as to whether he would attend the outdoor reception to Gov. Roosevelt at Seagirt, N. J., Saturday

Senator Walsh said he hoped to see the 1928 nominee either before he leaves the city this time or when he returns in September.

Walsh will take part in the Maine State campaign and will return to national headquarters after Labor Day to aid in the New England campaign as a member of the campaign advisory committee.

Predicts Good Gains.

Farley said reports from Maine convinced him "We'll make some good gains up there in the State election."

He also said, "The caliber of the men and women running for various State and county offices convinces me that up-State New York is ready to repeat what they did in 1930 and again go Democratic."

Mayor James Curley of Boston came to headquarters to map out his stumping tour of the West and listen to a preview of a talkie he has made on the "Forgotten Man."

He forecast a Democratic victory in Massachusetts and said William D. Upshaw, presidential candidate of the National Prohibition party, will draw 75,000 "irreconcilable dry Republican votes," while Gov. Roosevelt will get at least 150,000 independent votes."

The "forgotten man" became a contributor to the Roosevelt-Garner campaign during the day. Several letters bearing that signature and inclosing dollar bills were received at the Democratic headquarters.

Four-Way Broadcast.

A four-way broadcast over a Nation-wide hookup was announced by the campaign leaders.

At 8 p. m. Thursday night Gov. Roosevelt will deliver what is called "an important message to the American people." He will be followed by Farley, speaking from New York; Evans Woollen, chairman of the campaign finance committee, speaking from Indianapolis, and former Gov. Harry F. Byrd, chairman of the executive campaign finance committee, speaking from New York.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Democratic national committeewoman from the District of Columbia, conferred with Farley and praised Roosevelt's Ohio speech.

"That this speech hit home," she said, "is evidenced by the squeals which emanated Monday from Senator Moses, Congressman Snell and Undersecretary of State Castle.

"Gov. Roosevelt has put the Republican administration on the defensive and I confidently expect him to keep it there."

Crack-Shot Banker Wounds 2 Bandits

Both Victims and Companion Seized After Kidaping Cashier in Auto.

Dierks, Ark., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—A banker who learned about firearms during the World War wounded two of three bandits who robbed the Bank of Dierks of $6,000 today and thereby forced the trio to surrender an hour later with their loot after a posse of officers overtook them.

The banker, Vice President J. L. Keener, remained in the bank until two of the bandits forced the cashier, Aubrey Gore, into their automobile and then he opened fire with an automatic pistol. Two of the men, who told police they were Rufe McCain, 29, and Henry Davenport, 19, of Wichita Falls, Tex., were each shot in the arm by Keener, who had a "pistol expert" rating during his war service.

Gore was injured when the bandits pushed him from their speeding car about 3 miles from here. They went on through De Queen, west of here, where the car was overtaken by a posse. With his two companions wounded, the driver, who gave his name as Curley Smith, 30, Broken Bow, Okla., surrendered. All of the money was recovered.

Officials believed Jack was down in desert country 20 miles east of El Paso. Spencer, who had motor trouble and returned to El Paso, reported there he had sighted a plane grounded in the mountains.

George Quick, United States Department of Commerce airways inspector, left El Paso this afternoon by plane to search for Jack. Jack's plane was reported nosed over, but it was impossible to tell whether the pilot had been injured.

AKRON MISHAP QUIZ BOARD IS APPOINTED

Commander of Airship Says Damage Is Not Great; Probe On Today.

Philadelphia, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—A board of investigation consisting of four naval officials to inquire into the cause of a mishap in which the rear fin of the airship Akron was damaged was appointed today by Rear Admiral Lucius A. Bostwick at the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

The board will be made up of Sydney M. Krause, manager of the Naval Aircraft Factory; Commander Frank C. McCord, Lieut. Comdr. Myron J. Walker and Lieut. Comdr. Joseph C. Arnold, all of the Naval Air Station at Lakehurst. The board will meet in Lakehurst tomorrow.

Lakehurst, N. J., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Commander Albert H. Dresel, commander of the Akron, said today the damage to the craft in an accident Sunday night was not very great, and in all probability the necessary repairs could be made at the air station.

A rear fin was damaged when the ship was struck by a rear handling beam as it was being moved down the land field preparatory to a night training cruise.

Commander Dresel said the full extent of the damage had not yet been ascertained, but he doubted it was extensive enough to keep the airship in its hangar for any appreciable length of time. Repairing of the ship at the air station would depend, he said, on whether the necessary materials were available.

The commander said the accident was not similar to the one last February, when the ship's tail broke away from the handling gear and struck the ground.

Raymond Hill, Cleveland, was unaccounted for two hours after the main body of fliers arrived. He was one of the last to leave Birmingham.

HEAD OF U. S. STEEL SEES SALES REVIVAL

Taylor Reveals Firm Spending $5,000,000 on Expansion in Anticipation.

New York, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the directorate of the United States Steel Corporation, said today that a buying movement "can not long be delayed."

He made this comment in an interview in which he disclosed that the corporation's finance committee had authorized the expenditure of $5,000,000 for plant improvements.

A vacuum of unfilled steel requirements, similar to that which followed the World War, was described by Mr. Taylor. This cheerful comment was his first since he assumed the dominant position in the industry long held by the late E. H. Gary.

Vacuum After War.

Mr. Taylor recalled that the World War created "a great vacuum due to the destruction of physical property," and was followed by a period of active replacement.

In the current situation, he explained, "the stoppage of production due to the depression, the consumption of supplies, and the wear and tear from the use of all materials and eqpuipment, are creating a similar vacuum, which, in due course, will have to be filled.

"Then too, in periods such as the one through which we are now passing, competition necessitates the use of modern equipment. One might look upon this as a time for a thorough housecleaning. This will be the reason for replacement on a large scale when productive facilities are again called into substantial use. It would seem the buying movement can not be long delayed."

Confidence in Recovery.

The action of the directorate of the billion dollar corporation, world's largest producer of steel, in ordering the regular quarterly dividend on the preferred stock at the meeting July 26, making a record-breaking deficit to surplus for the second quarter of the year of more than $26,000,000, had been widely interpreted in Wall street as indicating confidence in business recovery.

Mr. Taylor's comment today carefully avoided any definite predictions as to when, or to what extent, the steel business would improve.

Nevertheless, it followed rumors in usually well-informed quarters in Wall street that sources close to the big corporation were looking for a substantial improvement during the autumn. It has been estimated that current production would be inadequate to replace the steel destroyed by rust alone.

British Reenact Civil War Battle

Shenandoah Valley Clash Is Directed by Modern Stonewall Jackson.

Aldershot, England, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Stonewall Jackson fought again today in an episode of the Shenandoah Valley campaign in the American Civil War, enacted as a problem in maneuvers on the picturesque commons surrounding Frensham village.

Lieut. Col. F. H. L. Bissett took Jackson's role as commander of a battalion of infantry, a squadron of cavalry and the famous Sphynx Battery of Royal Artillery. Arrayed against him were the "National" forces. In all there were about 2,000 troops.

British military experts are keen students of the Civil War strategy. There was not a Civil War beard on Jackson's staff today, but occasionally a monocle glinted in the sunlight. Dispatch riders were on motorcycles and armored cars and other mechanical equipment of the modern army replaced the more primitive devices of Jackson's day.

1,000 Picketing Farmers Camp on Roads to Omaha

Little Money and No Leaders to Keep Men on Job of Guarding Highways, But They Are Determined to Stay Until "Living Wages" Are Paid.

Omaha, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Leaders of the picketing farmers of Iowa, estimated more than 1,000 men, were concentrated today in impromptu camps along the main highways leading to Omaha. Their aim was to prevent marketing of farm products until a "living wage" could be obtained.

Every picketer was free to come and go, but most of them were there to stay.

Apparently there were no leaders in many of the camps. At the camp on the highway just east of Blair, Nebr., a reporter asked a sun-tanned, weather-beaten farmer for "the leader in this camp."

"There aren't any leaders here, and we aren't going to have any," retorted the farmer. "We've had too much leadership already. That's why we're here."

In many of the roadside camps the men were practically without funds. There were no arrangements for food, no beds, no sleeping accommodations of any kind. Yet the farmers remained, just as wide awake at midnight as they are at noon.

Each man was on his own. At Missouri Valley, Iowa, a youth slept through breakfast, his bed the roadside.

"Where do the rest of you sleep?" the reporters asked.

"Sleep?" queried one of the group; "we've been staying awake nights for five years trying to figure out some way of making a living. A few more nights without sleep won't hurt us."

Some of the men had come 80 miles to join the picket line. Most of them described themselves as tenant farmers. A few were sons of farmers and some were jobless hired men.

Determination marked the attitude of picketers. They halt the trucks firmly. Calmly they explain their position and in the majority of cases, they said, the truck driver answers something like this:

"Okeh boys. Let me know when it's all right to go through."

PAUL BLOCK TERMS WALKER STOCK GIFT ONE OF SEVERAL

bury, counsel to the Hofstadter committee, contends, delivered bonds to the mayor in return for official favors.

Block explained to the governor that Walker was only one of several persons he aided during the "bull market" days before the collapse of October, 1929. At the governor's suggestion he wrote down the names of four he assisted.

In no case, he declared, did he require the beneficiary to post margins to meet possible slumps in the market. He added, if there had been a loss in the Walker account "I would have tried to transfer it to my personal account."

Block repeated the declaration before the Hofstadter committee that his young son, Billy, inspired the Walker account when he said he couldn't see how the mayor "could live" on his salary. Billy was a spectator at today's proceedings.

Once Lived With Block.

Block said the mayor had been "a very intimate friend for seventeen or eighteen years," and for two years had lived in Block's apartment.

The "unknown person" again entered the hearing when Block was questioned about a check for $7,500 which was drawn on the Block-Walker account in favor of that anonymous individual. Walker, himself, testified last week that the "unknown person" was a woman friend of his.

It developed that the check for $7,500 was missing and Seabury said he never had had it. He established the identity of the receiver through a check stub and testimony of Block taken at a private hearing. The Hofstadter counsel added that the check had been printed in a newspaper.

"So," Walker interrupted, 'that's what we've been saying all along."

"Were you ever asked about the 'unknown person' by Mr. Seabury in private hearing?" Block was asked by John J. Curtin, the mayor's counsel.

"Not by me," Seabury interjected.

"I asked Judge Seabury if he were interested in Mayor Walker's private life," replied Block. "He said he was not interested."

Humorous Episode.

The only humorous episode of the long, serious afternoon and evening came when Curtin asked Ungerleider if his repurchase agreements such as Sherwood entered into were not made at a time stocks were going up.

"Yes," the financier replied. "It was a good market."

"You were relying on Republican prosperity," Curtin suggested, smiling.

"It's still Republican prosperity," answered Ungerleider and Roosevelt, the Democratic candidate for President, joined in the laughter.

Ungerleider's name was linked with the Walker case because of his interest in Parmalee Co., which would have benefited by a limitation of taxicab operation in New York. Seabury said Walker attempted to limit the cabs.

L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad and a member of the New York City Board of Taxicab Control, testified today the mayor had not sought to influence the board.

Curtin today perfected his briefs for the Supreme Court, which has been called upon by Mayor Walker to pass upon Gov. Roosevelt's power of removal. Both Curtin and the attorney general, who is defending the governor's rights, must submit their briefs to Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley tomorrow.

PUBLICITY ON LOANS IS HELD BENEFICIAL

Steagall and Hancock Aver Reaction Favorable and Not Destructive.

(Associated Press.)

Repercussions over publication of Reconstruction Corporation loans to banks and other institutions failed to materialize yesterday and two Democrats on the House banking committee—Chairman Steagall, of Alabama, and Representative Hancock, of North Carolina—expressed the belief that the publicity would have a beneficial effect on depositors of borrowing institutions.

Both Steagall and Hancock said the fact that the banks could borrow showed the soundness of their security. They are members of the group that formulated the original bill creating the Reconstruction Corporation.

Steagall said:

"Many banks that have let it be known that they have borrowed from the Reconstruction Corporation re-established themselves in public confidence.

Favorable Action.

"I have personal knowledge of banking institutions making known that they had secured loans from the Reconstruction Corporation and the reaction has been favorable. The publicity of loans has had restorative effect in most instances."

The most notable instance was that of Charles G. Dawes, former president of the corporation, he said, adding that when the Dawes bank in Chicago needed ready cash the former Vice President and Ambassador to England "pushed into print" with news of an $85,000,000 authorized loan.

Held Not Destructive.

Hancock said, "The publication of the information about the Reconstruction Corporation's activities should be constructive and not destructive, and any one can afford to say that the best evidence of a bank's soundness is its ability to borrow from the corporation.

"I believe the psychological effect of the publication of the figures will be good."

Administration opponents of loan publicity, as well as Reconstruction Corporation officials, were silent on the action of South Trimble, clerk of the Democratic House, in releasing the figures under the publicity provision of the relief act. It was pointed out at his office yesterday that from the report there was no way of determining whether the listed borrowers had received the loans reported as authorized and granted.

FARM STRIKE STEPS TAKEN IN WISCONSIN AND NEBRASKA

Winnebago. Gov. Charles W. Bryan, however, said the holiday movement was not wise and could not solve the question of prices.

Negotiations at Omaha looking to the free passage of milk shipments through farmers' picket lines in southwestern Iowa.

A letter from Milo Reno, president of the National Farmers Holiday Association, who called the strike in Iowa two weeks ago, to Gov. Dan Turner, urging a conference between the Iowa executive and Gov. Olson of Minnesota. The Minnesota executive yesterday proposed martial law as an aid to the farmers' movement. Gov. Olson declared at Bemida, Minn., he would be glad to meet Gov. Turner. The latter could not be reached.

A marked decline of rail shipments of produce into Sioux City, point of origin of the strike, and no shipments by truck.

Reduction in hog prices on major markets with normal receipts.

Refusal of Sheriff H. T. Wagner, of Blackhawk County, in northeastern Iowa, to permit any picketing of roads in that vicinity. One farmer was injured there when a truck, escorted by deputies, crashed through the lines.

Arraignment of two farmers in Boone on charges of maliciously destroying property in connection with the dumping of cream.

Referring to the stopping of a railroad train at Emerson and Nacora, Neb., last night, leaders of the strike instructed that the farmers do no more than picket the highways peaceably.

Picket lines in southern Iowa, at the strategically located centers as Council Bluffs, Missouri Valley and Onawa were drawn more closely as the day wore on, but sheriffs of several counties declared no violence would be tolerated.

The result was that all but a few trucks passed through the lines.

At Rockford, Iowa, a new sector of the campaign, more than 75 farmers demanded of Manager Lynn Smith that the Rockford creamery observe the holiday by closing. Later they went on similar missions to Nora Springs, Dougherty and Greene, accompanied by Sheriff B. F. Atherton, of Floyd County.

Death of Norfolk Bank Agent Still Unsolved

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—What led to the death of Herbert C. Warwick, 44, a solicitor for the trust department of the Norfolk National Bank of Commerce and Trusts, remained a mystery tonight.

Police said that the pistol bullet wound in the head which led to Mr. Warwick's death early this morning appeared to have been self-inflicted, but bank officials and other associates said they knew of no reason why he should have taken his own life.

It was said that nothing at the bank was involved and so far as was known he was in good health.

RAIL LABOR REIGN OF TERROR BARED

Five Held in Mississippi Said to Confess Wounding of Several Firemen.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Disclosure of a far-reaching reign of terror designed to drive Negro railway firemen from their jobs and the confession of five men were announced today by police.

Those quoted as confessing they participated in a conspiracy that led to the wounding of several Negroes were arrested in Brookhaven, Magnolia and Jackson, Miss., and Memphis, Tenn.

No evidence was unearthed to connect them with the slaying of five Negro firemen within recent months.

Four of the prisoners are former employes of the Illinois Central Railroad. Police declared they confessed the attacks on firemen of the Louisiana division of the road were motivated by a desire to frighten the Negroes from their work so that white men could secure employment.

The confessions told of a "pool" from which gunmen were paid sums ranging from $25 to $125 for each attack.

The prisoners gave their names as M. F. Varnado, of McComb, Miss., described by police as "the trigger man" of the gang, and Reedy Lee, Emmett Smith, Charles J. Miller and J. Matt Lewis, all of McComb.

ILLINOIS CITIZENS ARM FOR STRIKERS

Flock to Jail in Benton, With 25,000 Marchers Expected to Begin Trek Today.

Benton, Ill., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Citizens of Benton and surrounding towns, armed with shotguns, pistols, blackjacks and some with machine-guns, flocked to the Franklin County jail here tonight to volunteer their services in repelling the threatened invasion of striking miners from other parts of the State to discourage local miners from working under the $5 wage contract.

Despite the warning of armed resistance, leaders of the strikers at their headquarters in Gillespie, about 90 miles northwest of here, completed their plans to start the march on Franklin County tomorrow morning. They expected 25,000 striking miners of central and northern Illinois to join their automobile and truck caravan by the time it reaches the Franklin County line some time Thursday. They expected to camp tomorrow night at Dowell, only a few miles from the western boundry line of Franklin County.

A tense situation existed here tonight as armed citizens milled about, with traffic blocked in streets surrounding the county jail, where the volunteers were being registered in preparation for their being called upon if their aid is needed to turn back the invading miners. All persons unknown to county officials were being questioned and their automobiles searched for firearms.

Meanwhile officials of neighboring counties were mobilizing their forces and cooperating with Benton officials in plans to head off the invasion from the north, although the immediate objective of the outside miners is Franklin County, where one miner was killed and six others and a boy wounded, in two shootings Monday. In Williamson County 350 volunteers had been commissioned as deputy sheriffs. Eighty special officers were patrolling the highways tonight.

Miner Freed in Harlan Murder Is Rearrested

Harland, Ky., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—William Burnett, miner, who was acquitted after the first trial resulting from Harlan County's mine labor disorders, was arrested today on a charge of shooting with intent to kill in connection with the same shooting.

Burnett was tried on a charge of murdering Deputy Sheriff Jess Pace at Evarts in 1931, Harlan County's first mine labor fatality. The miner was acquitted. The charge on which he was arrested today related to the wounding of Deputy Sheriff Frank White, who was with Pace in the same fight.

Mrs. Thaden Flies To Mate and Son

Endurance Heroine to Rejoin Partner Today for 3-Day Theater Stand.

New York, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—The pair of housewives who ended an eight-day airplane ride yesterday for a new world record, parted company today as one hopped for Baltimore to visit her husband and son.

While Mrs. Frances Marsalis spent the afternoon at a hair-dressing establishment, Mrs. Louise Thaden borrowed a training plane at Curtiss Field and flew to Baltimore to see her husband, Bert, a plane company engineer, and a 2-year-old boy she calls "Bill."

It was Mrs. Thaden who collapsed and had to be carried from the field here yesterday when they brought their plane down after 196 hours and 5 minutes in the air, surpassing by more than three days the previous record of Bobby Trout and Edna May Cooper.

Mrs. Thaden will return in the morning and have her session with the hairdresser. At a matinee performance in the afternoon they begin a three-day stand at a Long Island theater.

Economist Sees World Tariff Cuts

Negotiations of France and U. S. Are Viewed as Preliminary.

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 23 (A.P.). Pending negotiations for a reciprocal tariff agreement between the United States and France were viewed today by Prof. John H. Williams of Harvard as a preliminary to world-wide tariff reductions.

He told the Institute of Politics that if France reaches an agreement with this country she probably would turn then to Great Britain and that this action would pave the way for a universal readjustment.

"More and more," he said, "we are beginning to realize that there is more to be gained by the acquisition of foreign markets than there is to be lost in the domestic market through the lowering of tariffs." Williams called the Smoot-Hawley act "our supreme act of folly."

Experts Find Mexican Ruins Of Home 20 Centuries Old

Discovery of Toltec Relics Described as Most Important Ever Made in Teotihuacan Zone; Pottery and Statue Included in List.

Mexico City, Aug. 23 (U.P.).—The 20-century-old secrets of the Toltecs, described in myth and legend as the first bearers of arts and knowledge to Mexico, were given new archeological significance tonight with announcement of important excavations at famous San Juan Teotihuacan.

The ruins of a great 40-room home, in which once lived an important personage of the Toltec period, many articles of pottery, images and jade ornaments have been discovered in excavation some 30 miles northeast of Mexico City. The age of the house was estimated at 2,000 years or more.

Dr. Sigwald Linne, of the State Museum of Natural History at Stockholm, directed the excavation and Dr. Manuel Gamio, foremost expert in the Teotihuacan zone, described the discoveries as the most important made in the district.

Turning the cold light of scientific research on the period in which the legendary hero Quetzalcoatl was supposed to have been associated with the Toltcs, the excavators dug into the buried ruins of the ancient house to recover Toltec pottery, jade and bone ornaments, and a clay statue of the Aztec harvest god, Xipetotec, which was 4 feet tall.

The Toltecs were once supposed to have been predominant in a large part of Mexico, living chiefly in the valley region and taking their name literally from "the place of tules or rushes." Toltec and Teotihuacan are different names for the same period, which was supposed to have reached its peak about 900 A. D.

The Toltec influence extends over a large area, although the most important ruins of the period are near Mexico City. In Yucatan and other late Maya regions, the Toltec civilization left a mark on the early peoples of the country.

Dr. Linne left tonight for Vera Cruz, en route to New Orleans, where he will confer with Franz Blom, the Tulane University archeologist.

Later he will continue to Sweden, taking many relics with him.

SKID LANDING AVOIDS DOOLITTLE CRACK-UP

Noted Pilot Pulls Safely Out of Predicament as Gear Fails.

Wichita, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Unable to release his faulty retractable landing gear, Maj. James H. (Jimmy) Doolittle, noted speed pilot, staked his life on a "skid" landing here today and won.

Doolittle had taken his rebuilt Laird biplane up for a series of tests preparatory to an assault on his own Bendix race speed record and West-East transcontinental flight mark of 11 hours and 11 minutes, established a year ago.

Soaring over the test field, he dropped a note:

"Something wrong landing gear. I can get 3½ turns both ways. If you have any suggestions, write them on the side of a plane and come up. Otherwise I will run out of gas and stall in."

Hastily scribbled letters on the side of a ship piloted by Preston Kirk, advised Doolittle to "zoom to the right—zoom to the left—power dive." These maneuvers failing, Doolittle released the landing gear as much as possible, roared away from the crowd and set the plane down.

Unscratched, he crawled from the cockpit and emerged from the cloud of dust to survey the damage.

At first the pilot said it would be impossible to make satisfactory repairs in time to get the plane to Burbank, Calif., to take part in the Bendix race to Cleveland. Later he said he probably would know by tomorrow noon whether the ship could be reconditioned for the race.

"I have no definite plans whatever," he said, when informed that National Air Race officials at Cleveland offered to obtain another plane for him. "I'll have to wait and see what we can do here."

Asked if he had considered making a parachute leap, Doolittle replied:

"One considers everything at a time like that, but often he does just the right thing. As it develops, I did. I could have baled out, but the plane would have been demolished and might have landed on some building."

Postal Clerks Halt Billion Going to Fake Lotteries

Uncanny Intuition Employed in Detecting Money and Tickets for Frauds in Alien Territory, Where Promoters Establish Residence; Cash Returned.

(United Press.)

The Federal Government is pitting the uncanny intuition of postal clerks who handle millions of pieces of mail against lottery operators who are seeking to draw billions of American dollars across the frontiers into alien territory.

Against the elaborate and crafty schemes of the lottery promoters the Postoffice Department arrays the skilled fingers of clerks, who can run their hands across a sealed envelope and know immediately whether it contains a book of tickets. Solicitor Horace J. Donnelly summed up the results of a two-year campaign yesterday and estimated $1,000,000,000 had been saved for the American people by keeping them out of fake lotteries.

"The experienced operators," he said, "seldom run the risk of remaining in the United States and using the mails. They journey to Canada, Newfoundland, Mexico, Cuba and other countries to establish a base of operations. Some set up powerful radio stations on foreign soil. Daily, over the air, the operators pointed out the easy road to wealth and begged their American listeners to send them money to invest in a sure-winning lottery.

"It might have worked if it had not been necessary to use the United States mail to send the money. Postal clerks were warned to watch the mails. For days they would put aside every letter that felt as though it contained cardboard tickets."

Then the law of coincidence began to work. Certain addresses in foreign countries began to appear frequently on envelopes passing through stations in large cities. It was easy to establish the address of the lottery operator and still easier to stop every letter destined to such an address.

"Most of these alleged lotteries," Donnelly said, "are not lotteries at all, but straightout frauds. The promoter simply pockets every dollar received. Only this week we discovered in the mails a package from Ireland containing an innocent looking book on the life of a great divine. When opened the book was found to be hollowed out inside and filled with hundreds of lottery tickets. A note, purporting to be from a living divine, prayed that his attempts at smuggling would have much success in selling the contraband. We issued a fraud order immediately."

In the last two years the Postoffice Department has noticed a vast increase in attempts to smuggle lottery tickets into the country, Donnelly attributes it to the world-wide publicity received by the Irish hospital lottery and the Calcutta sweepstakes. Accounts of how obscure persons were lifted to wealth by holding the lucky ticket fired the imagination of the American people and made them receptive to all get-rich-quick schemes.

Lottery operators, taking advantage of that publicity and of the business depression, preyed upon the public, officials say, with promises of gigantic returns for small investments. In many cases envelopes containing as much as $250 and addressed to foreign destinations have been stopped and the money returned to the sender.

Rumrunners Now Tow Cargo in Big Cylinders

Charleston, S. C., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—A new wrinkle in rumrunning operations was revealed today when Coast Guardsmen opened a huge metal cylinder found floating in Winyah Bay and took out several hundred sacks of liquor.

The cylinder was 40 feet long and about 10 feet in diameter. Coast Guardsmen expressed belief the cylinder was towed by a rum boat which cut it free when some Coast Guard boat approached. Planning to pick it up later.

SALT HELD FACTOR IN DETERMINING SEX

Eugenists Hear Discovery Expounded; Birth Control Also Discussed.

New York, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—A discovery that salt may partly determine sex of children, new methods of birth control and new reasons why some couples are childless were reported to the third International Congress of Eugenics today.

The salt discovery was said by its author, Agnes Bluhm, of Germany, to be only one of seemingly numerous sex-determining factors in human beings. She increased the number of female mice by use of sodium, the base of table salt. The salt changed body alkalinity balance, and this change affected sex.

She pointed to experiments by other scientists upon human beings to show that the alkalinity change resulting from use of salt may be different in different races, species and even among individuals. Hence salt or other chemicals might tend toward male births in one family and females in another.

The new birth controls are secretions of the endocrine, or ductless, glands. One is the anterior pituitary gland near the base of the brain. It produces temporary sterility. Proteins from some other glands have a similar effect. These studies were reported by Michael F. Gueyer, of the department of zoology, University of Wisconsin.

These endocrine glands play a considerable role in causing the childlessness of some couples, according to Dr. Allan W. Rowe and associates of Evans Memorial Hospital, Boston.

"More than 10 per cent of modern marriages are involuntarily barren," said Dr. Rowe, "and another 10 per cent relatively so.

"During the past 10 years much light has been thrown upon the cause. First it is not some single abnormality, but four or five factors. Second, in the great majority of cases, the responsibility is divided between the two partners. Third, states of constitutional depression, both endocrine and nonendocrine, are causative factors."

PUBLICITY OF LOANS.

Thus far it does not appear that banks borrowing from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation have suffered from publication of the fact. Chairman Steagall of the House committee on banking believes that publicity is helpful rather than injurious, and he cites the loan of $80,000,000 to Gen. Dawes' bank in Chicago as an example. No secret was made of this large loan. Confidence in the stability of the bank was increased when Gen. Dawes announced that the loan had been made.

While some ignorant depositors in small communities may become alarmed when they learn that their local bank has borrowed money, the public in general seems to be well informed of the fact that good security must be furnished to support every loan. The borrowing merely transforms a slow-moving or frozen security into liquid capital. Thus judicious borrowing from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation tends to restore to a bank its ability to grant credit to customers, besides fortifying itself against possible heavy withdrawals by depositors.

Another factor tending to remove all danger from publicity is the increased public confidence. What might have been a precarious operation six months or a year ago is now harmless, because the people feel that the whole economic structure has been strengthened by the great measures which enable the United States to mobilize the nation's wealth and credit. These measures become more effective daily, as their effects spread throughout the country. Credit is easier. Railroads, which employ thousands of men and purchase millions of dollars' worth of supplies and equipment, are now enabled to go forward, thanks to loans furnished by the Government agency. Some of the borrowings have already been repaid. All of them are secured, and the Government collects interest upon its loans.

"THE FIGHTING SPIRIT."

The fact that the Democratic presidential candidate is making a great point of optimistic executive expressions following the market crash of 1929 does not deter administration officials from commenting upon the improved business outlook. The new Secretary of Commerce, Roy D. Chapin, in his first radio talk since taking office, expressed decidedly cheerful views, based upon actual conditions.

Speaking more as a business executive than as a public official, Secretary Chapin expressed the belief that the gathering of business leaders in Washington this week will do much to stimulate industry, agriculture and labor. The Secretary feels that the reconstruction measures already in operation, combined with the more hopeful spirit evident throughout the nation, serve as a base on which to build for permanent recovery.

Secretary Chapin sees no permanent damage to American foreign trade through any agreements that may result from the British Empire conference just closed at Ottawa. If Great Britain, Canada and the other dominions conclude arrangements which will bring them greater prosperity it will develop more business with the United States. Speaking of the decline in American foreign trade, Mr. Chapin held that it was no greater than was inevitable due to the decreased buying power of nations and, great as the falling off has been, American exports remain the largest among the countries of the world.

Of first importance in the improved outlook for the economic situation must be reckoned the better feeling everywhere among American business interests. "When general confidence is re-established," says Mr. Chapin, "we will be on the road to the kind of times we all desire. America is on the way to win the fight. There is no doubt that a new and aggressive mood is gripping the country, a mood more typical of American buoyancy and fighting spirit."

FLYING ENTHUSIASM.

Summer is drawing to a close with the air filled as never before with ambitious aviators striving to break all existing records. Air derbys, preliminaries of the great flying meet at Cleveland, span the continent. Many transoceanic pilots are poised for flight. The intrepid Capt. Mollison is feted in New York as the British Lindbergh, first to cross the Atlantic from Europe to America in a one-man plane. Amelia Earhart Putnam, not satisfied with her ocean flight, is after a transcontinental record as well.

These are high lights, the spectacular features of aviation, and doubtless conducive to the progress of flying. The sporting tests and adventures, demonstrating endurance and speed, must eventually improve the commercial air service. Air traffic of all kinds is growing rapidly in the United States. Every month and every year register a greatly increased number of passengers, more express and more letters carried. Just as the railroad and motor transportation went through periods when their practical possibilities were ridiculed, so it has been with the airplane; but that day has also passed for the latest and fastest rival.

The transcontinental lines are operated today on schedules as regular as those of the railroads. Not only the planes themselves, but all the equipment and facilities connected with the landing and emergency fields are of latest design, unequalled anywhere in the world for safety and comfort of passengers. Risk is reduced to the minimum by the automatic course indicators, numerous landing fields, and constant wireless communication with control offices, which supply weather reports and all other necessary information.

In the foreign field Pan American Airways, in which all the important American lines are interested, has become the undisputed leader. From a gradual absorption of Caribbean and South American service, it is now investigating the practical possibilities of a route to Europe by way of Greenland and Iceland. Air transport has made a big start, and American enterprise will keep this country in the forefront of future development.

FALSE PROPHETS.

Some of the magazine articles now appearing are laughable. They were written only a few days or weeks ago, when it was fashionable for pessimists, alarmists, and half-baked economists to give forth dark hints of "revolution" following hard upon the "collapse of the capitalist system." Now, when the country feels the impulse of confidence in every branch of industry, these belated articles appear, stamping their authors as false prophets.

Even in the depths of the depression there was no social unrest in this country, such as marks economic hardships in many foreign countries. The grit and stamina of the American people were never more splendidly demonstrated than during the period in which volunteer pessimists thought they saw the approach of chaos. Some of them were sincere, and others threw red paint into their pictures in order to market their wares. Among them were Communists and sympathizers with communism, anxious to glorify the superior civilization achieved in Soviet Russia.

The "failure of the capitalistic system," harped upon by pessimists and admirers of communism, was never more remote than when the American people were enduring the stress of the depression. It is when an American has his back to the wall that he becomes conservative rather than radical. The "capitalistic system" is merely a misnomer for the system of ownership of property. The right to own property is exercised instinctively, even by savages who guard the bows and arrows they have made. It is the basis of civilization, being the basis of the family and the home. No depression or other hardship can destroy the determination of humans to own and enjoy property. The Russian Soviet is yielding to the pressure. Stark communism is dead there, and the corpse is bolstered up in the saddle, like that of the Cid Campeador, while the red managers endeavor to hold their grip by pouring out propaganda to delude the unlettered Russians into believing that all the rest of the world—the "capitalist" world—is on the verge of collapse. The Russian peasants cling to their own property with a death-grip, and the Soviet is constantly moving toward "capitalism" while vainly hoping to destroy capitalism elsewhere.

The conservatism of the American people is saving their property and clearing the ground as a foundation for new fortunes. This conservatism is anything but reactionary or pessimistic. It is forward-looking and aggressive. It is the spirit of conquest, which seeks "to have and to hold." It made America, and it is now making America greater.

SAVINGS AND STABILITY.

Economists are giving a great deal of attention to the theory that excessive savings were in part the cause of the depression. One group points to the piling up of capital, the too rapid extension of industrial plant capacity and the general overproduction that accompanied the pre-depression boom. The inclination of the people to save, they say, accentuated this accumulation of capital and made a painful readjustment necessary.

But the old school of economic thought is more impressed by the enormous volume of debt that was accumulated during the hilarious days of 1928 and 1929. This group is inclined to regard installment buying, the tendency toward living beyond one's income and the extravagant habits acquired by the people as major elements of hard times. More and not less thrift is the remedy offered by this group.

Much loose talk is heard on both sides. It is undoubtedly true that a phenomenal accumulation of capital was a factor in the industrial maladjustments of 1928-29. When an excessive amount of earnings was turned into capital, purchasing power was necessarily curtailed. Yet more and not less purchasing power was needed to provide consumption for the increased output of factories. The result was overproduction, diminishing profits, and finally a severe readjustment that shook the entire economic system.

Under modern conditions excessive investment by the country as a whole becomes detrimental. That seems to be quite clear from the evidence at hand. Every time the people try to save too great a portion of their income for investment, the value of capital undergoes a devastating shrinkage. Thus the very purpose for which savings are set aside is defeated.

But this nationalistic view of excessive savings does not solve the individual problem. Every man must look to his own interests. If every man were assured of continuous work, of adequate compensation in event of accident and of care during old age, saving would not be necessary. But income for the large majority is uncertain. To escape the fear of want and distress just around the corner, it is absolutely necessary for a family to lay something aside for the proverbial "rainy day." The depression has emphasized this urgent need, even more than it has emphasized the results of excessive savings.

The contradiction between the needs for more spending power and more savings is more apparent than real. Each theory is sound within a limited field. It would be absurd to advise a workingman who has a family of children to support to live up to the maximum of his income. Savings in this case become a major factor of stability. On the other hand, a large corporation which saves an excessive part of its earnings for extension of its capacity, instead of converting those earnings into purchasing power through the payment of higher wages and dividends, makes a direct contribution to future instability.

Any attempt on the part of economists to convince the wage earner that thrift is a bad habit because it promotes instability is ludicrous. As a rule the workingman saves too little rather than too much. Yet the argument against excessive saving by wealthy interests is both timely and logical. The balance between production and purchasing power is upset by ambitious corporate interests and not by overexpansion of the average family bank account.

CHANGE OF ENVOYS.

Shifts in the Italian diplomatic service include a change of ambassadors accredited to the United States, much to the regret of the diplomatic corps and residents of Washington. Ambassador Giacomo de Martino and his charming wife have maintained a hospitable home here and have formed lasting friendships in the cosmopolitan society of this Capital. Throughout his term here, culminating in his accession to the position of dean of the corps, Ambassador de Martino has been vigilant in his country's service, both by protecting its interests and cultivating the good will of Americans. Few Americans are as well acquainted with the Atlantic seaboard as the indefatigable envoy of Italy, who is never happier than when driving alone, usually incognito, searching out picturesque spots and historic places. Some of his experiences have been as picturesque as the countryside itself, besides furnishing frequent opportunities for exercising the ambassador's sense of humor. If he would put down in writing some of his reminiscences of American life the book would have great attractions for Americans.

Nobile de Martino's successor is Augusto Rosso, a young diplomat who has had a varied career, including service in the Washington embassy several years ago. He will be among friends when he returns, and will be most welcome.

Democrats in Congress who have been praised by President Hoover for nonpartisan cooperation are wondering what Gov. Roosevelt will say about it.

The only chap who has applied to the R. F. C. for a loan without offering to put up collateral is Giff Pinchot—and see what he got.

Last week Mayor Walker was to resign, and this week he is to put up a fistfight if he is ousted.

Don't forget that banks borrowing from the R. F. C. put up security. No weakness in that.

Some Democrats are afraid that Al Smith won't speak, but McAdoo is afraid that he will.

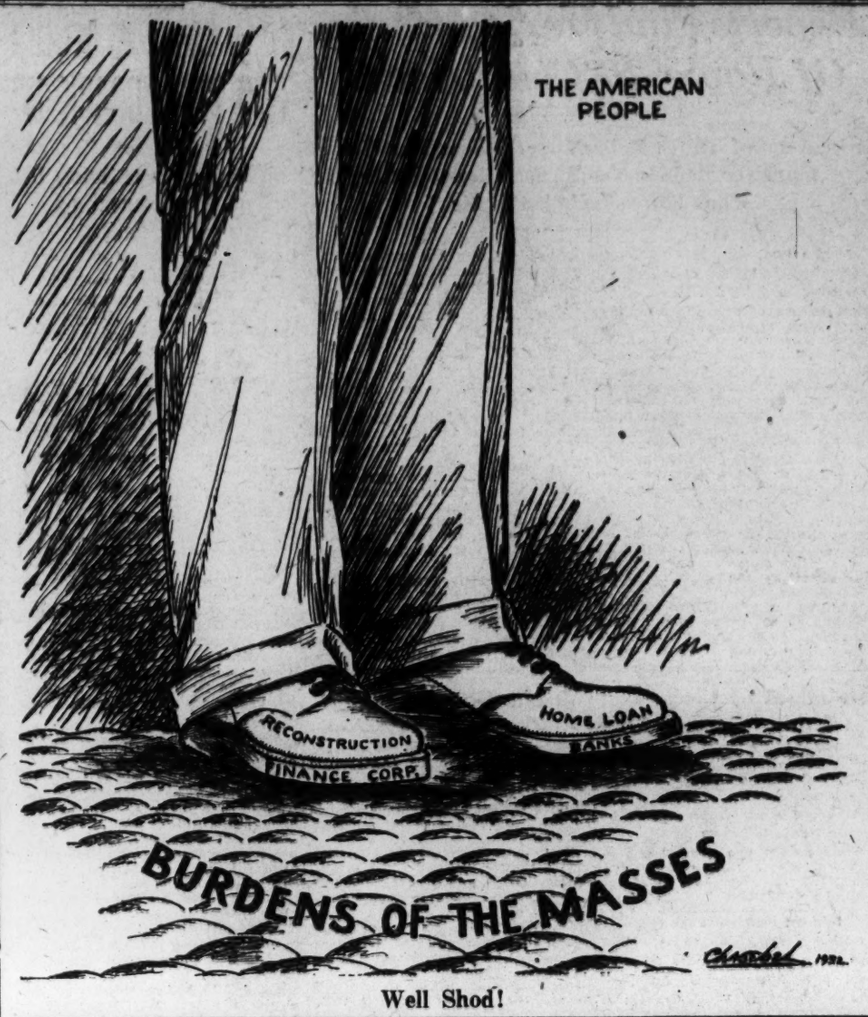
GOING UP

From the Boston Transcript.

Mortal man has yet to "go some" to shake himself loose from that force of gravitation which presses him against the bosom of his mother earth. The shells of the Big Bertha which spread dismay in Paris in the spring of 1918 reached an altitude of 25 miles in their flight, the greatest height to which any invention of man has ever been projected. But they, too, failed to penetrate into that far-off no-man's land in space where the pull of the earth and the moon are so nicely balanced that they would have hung there in eternal equilibrium or perhaps marked out an orbit round our planet as new, invisible satellites.

On a globe 7½ feet in diameter the relative height of Prof. Piccard's balloon ascension would be represented by an elevation of about ⅛ of 1 inch above its smooth, papier-mache surface, and beside it the unconquered peaks of Mount Everest would appear like a fleck of spray half the size of a very small dew drop. So, all of this blanket of atmosphere in which we exist, up through the stratosphere which Prof. Piccard has studied, is no more, compared with the bulk of the earth, than the cloudy film of our breath on a window pane.

The dream that a way will be found to sail to the moon or Mars seems, therefore, in the light of man's greatest achievements so far, to be beyond any possibility of fulfillment. And if there be Martians and super-Martians in the spacious firmament around us, not one has been able to leave his own celestial abode to visit this grain of sand which we call the earth. The ruined archangel imagined by Milton dropped from the zenith like a fallen star or wandered through space ungoverned by those forces of attraction and repulsion which we disobey at our peril. And even if we become as insubstantial as they we may not enjoy their long flight from star to star, but find ourselves "imprisoned in the viewless winds, and blown with restless violence round about the pendent world," still chained to our parent orb by the same power that in some mysterious fashion rules all creation.



Well Shod!

POST HASTE.

Gov. Roosevelt disapproves of President Hoover's remarks about conditions in 1929, but what about Hoover's reconstruction program in 1932?

Some kind of a deal ought to be possible between the striking miners of Illinois, who are running short of food, and the striking farmers of Iowa, who have too much.

Due to propinquitous contagion, that Reno bank doubtless was granted R. F. C. alimony because it was divorced from its jack.

Democracy as she is practiced in Ecuador: After electing a president, congress decided it didn't like him and declared him ineligible, but the situation was still uncertain until the army announced it would support the congressional decree.

Virginia imported an English girl last year to be apple blossom queen, and Great Britain reciprocates with an apple import tax.

Highbrow Connecticut: The advent of Shakespearean scholar Tunney in politics has encouraged two other professors to enter the senatorial race against Hi Bingham, formerly of the Yale faculty.

The able Dr. John the Baptist Sacasa, former popular minister here, has been nominated for President of Nicaragua. The Marines are still there to prevent his being baptized by Sandino fire during the campaign.

Publicity for bank loans may make many small institutions hesitate until it is too late to mobilize their securities.

Mississippi held a Democratic congressional primary yesterday, amid such a confusion of redistricting laws and court decisions that it knows less about where it's at today than it did on Monday.

It seemed as though the money was all going back to the stock market, but the Treasury's bill offering was subscribed nearly six times over. Still a bit of idle cash about.

Just where are those billions in foreign bonds? We have been hearing that they were stuffed down the throats of an innocent citizenry, but now Senator Carter Glass says they are "choking the portfolios of banks."

Observers who were looking for the silver lining recently have begun to wonder whether the stock exchange's break lining is in good condition.

When West to East meets East to West the twain is Lindbergh and Mollison.

The United States Senate is to be in satirized session at the National Theater next month; but will it provide any novelty for Washington?

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

JUST DO YOUR BEST.

My father often used to say:
"Just do the best you can.
Don't grieve if sometimes goes astray,
Some highly fancied plan;
And when you blunder, as you will,
Take wisdom from it then.
Let not the loss your spirit kill,
But go to work again.

"Though difficult the task may be.
The roadway rough and long,
The obstacles you plainly see
Are there to make you strong.
Don't cry: 'I can't do that, I know!'
Set to it like a man;
You may not quite succeed, but oh,
Just do the best you can.

"Fail if you must because you lack
The strength to clamber high,
But don't on duty turn your back
And say you failed to try.
Be not so Fearful of defeat,
They'll tell from it you ran
Whate'er the odds you're forced to meet,

He Can't Serve as One of the Judges If He Competes for the Prize

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE fathers who made this a Nation devised checks and balances to anticipate every imaginable danger that might threaten their handiwork.

But their experience of greed and graft was limited, and the wisest of men can not prepare a defense against dangers that are unknown and unimagined.

If they had suspected that future generations would confuse the identity of Uncle Sam and Santa Claus, our Constitution doubtless would disfranchise every man on the public pay roll.

Their oversight can be corrected by statute, and apparently it must be corrected if part of us are to escape the dreadful job of supporting the rest of us.

The question to be decided is whether a man supported by the public has the right to determine how long that support shall continue and how generous it shall be.

If an employe is injured, shall he or an unprejudiced jury fix the amount of his compensation?

Under our present system, any class of citizens can organize to vote as a unit and obtain for each member an annual Government subsidy of, say, fifty dollars.

Such an absurdity is not probable, for large groups are hard to hold in line and people seldom invite public censure if the reward is small and their need not urgent.

But it is human nature to ride a free horse to death, and public opinion matters little to those who need the ride.

Once the members of this class have a taste of easy money, self-interest blinds them to all things that threaten their graft. A realization of their power silences the voice of conscience and they invent reasons to demand more and more until at last their annual take is $5,000 each.

How do they do it? Simply by threatening to unhorse any congressman who opposes their demands.

Congressmen are paid more than they could earn in private life. They live in dread of losing their jobs. Most of them will obey any organization that has power to defeat them at the polls.

But suppose that citizens wholly or partly supported by the public treasury were denied the right to vote? Their power over congressmen would be ended. They could no longer, by indirection, vote themselves a subsidy.

Has the judge an ethical right to decide a case that affects his own interests?

If an official can not increase his own compensation, why has the citizen a right to do the same thing in a roundabout way?

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Christian Science Monitor.

President Hoover in his acceptance speech became his own best exponent of the tremendous efforts he and his administration have made to turn the tide of business recession. But he sounded the note that deserves to arouse the greatest national response when he went on to say that his aim has been and is to marshal the economic forces and resources of the United States "so that we may move from defense to powerful attack upon the depression along the whole national front."

Already there are signs that the attack has begun to function, that fear and deflation at long last have been checked and that some slight improvement in employment and trade is coming about. But there is a long way to go and a vast work to do before America and the rest of the world can take great satisfaction in those systems through which men are assumed to find opportunity for livelihood.

Legion Inclines to Bonus.

New York Herald-Tribune.

The American Legion is facing what threatens to become a very serious crisis in the history of the organization. When the national convention meets in Portland, Oreg., next month the bonus—that misshapen child of politics and the Legion's past mistakes—seems certain to arise in such a form that its dangerous implications can no longer be evaded. The Legion's State conventions are now instructing their delegates. A recent tabulation shows that of 21 such conventions so far held only 2 have adopted resolutions opposing the immediate payment of the bonus and only 5 have taken no action on the subject; the 14 others have all resolved for immediate payment.

Detroit Free Press.

The Democrats, says Chairman James A. Farley, are going after a number of small contributions this year rather than a few large ones. That's making a virtue out of a necessity all right. So are the Republicans.

Campaign Nonsense.

Baltimore Sun.

That rather large company of Americans who look to presidential campaigns primarily as producers of absurdities is apparently not going to be disappointed by this year's performance. Though the campaign is scarcely under way, it is doing very well in the absurdity line, and even producing certain novelties. Already, for example, we are told that "movements" have developed in both parties to tuck their vice presidential candidates out of sight of the crucial campaign areas in the East, leaving them to orate innocuously in the "open spaces."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sees Some Drawbacks to St. Lawrence Seaway—Canada Would Get Lion's Share of Benefit.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The proposed St. Lawrence River Canal seems to be liable to a great deal of criticism. It is to cost about $800,000,000, being twice as much as the Panama Canal. Of this the State of New York is asked to contribute $150,000,000. No other State that is benefited is asked for any assistance. The United States and New York are to stand about two-thirds of the cost, while Canada is to pay about one-third.

Although Canada is to pay far less than half the cost, more than half of the construction will be in Canada, and that country will receive more than half the benefit, because nearly all of Canada will get an improved outlet for foreign trade, while only a small part of the United States will receive a corresponding advantage. Three-fourths of our country will continue to ship to New York, Boston, Baltimore, New Orleans, Galveston, San Francisco, Seattle, &c.

If this project is considered a compelling necessity, could it not be built across the State of New York, leaving Canadian farm products at the disadvantage of paying toll in our canal? Can we afford for the sake of $800,000,000 to be invested by Canada to allow her farm products to gain a cheap ocean outlet on even terms with ours?

There would be advantages in locating a canal farther south, say from St. Louis to New Orleans, if possible, because this St. Lawrence Canal will be frozen a third of the year like the Great Lakes.

The main question is whether the United States can afford to pay 65 per cent of the cost of a canal that will facilitate the exportation of cheap wheat and other products of Canadian farms to lower the price of farm products in Europe to the disadvantage of all United States farmers whose products would still have to go abroad by other transportation.

Liquor Problem Is Nothing Compared With Problem of Getting Jobs.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: President Hoover's address and his powerful extension of Federal credit will carry the Republican party and himself into a fuller position of power at the next election.

Lack of a nimble dollar still hurts all of us, and economic troubles are the thorns in all our breasts. Compared with lack of jobs and income liquor is nothing. I am a dry, but I know that in a real democracy every action is a compromise—no two men fully agree on any issue, and are forced to yield in part to get action. President Hoover made a decision for himself as to modification of Federal supervision of liquor—but it is only his opinion still. The actual decision rests with the people.

Personally, I believe that we are all very tired of the harping and the false picture which liquor urges us to gaze upon in season and out.

SUMNER FORBES.

Why Workmen's Compensation Insurance Costs More.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Considerable criticism seems to have arisen regarding the 26.9 per cent increase by stock insurance companies on premiums for employes insurance, otherwise known as workmen's compensation insurance.

If a customer purchases a commodity in the open market he pays a price therefor. The price is known and made up of measurable charges to cover cost of manufacture, plus reasonable charges for overhead and profit. All elements whose sum constitute the whole are readily determinable in fixing the price for commodities. This is not true of insurance. Why? Because the price for insurance includes an unknown, unmeasurable element, that is, "moral hazard." By this is meant losses which under normal conditions should not happen.

This dangerous element in the price for this class of insurance has been one of the greatest reasons for the severe loss to the companies. It has been caused by economic conditions.

The premium is based on pay roll. Everyone knows how wages have been reduced. At the same time losses have jumped alarmingly. In the year 1929 (when the depression began) it cost the companies approximately $2 for every $1 it cost them to handle the business in 1926. And this in the face of steadily mounting expenses and losses. Hence the charge that, because other prices have decreased, the price of this insurance should do likewise is, to say the least, unjustified by the facts.

Statesman Must Be Judged by Succeeding Generations, Not by His Own—Consolation for Al Smith.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In reviewing the Democratic platform and learning President Hoover's stand on prohibition and war debts, perhaps it might be consoling for Al Smith to recall the words of Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, former president of the University of Virginia:

"In the case of a statesman, all experience warns us not to attempt to fix his final place in history until the generation that knew him and loved him, or hated him, shall have passed away and a new generation, to whom he was not a familiar figure, shall have come upon the stage, capable of beholding him with eyes undimmed by emotion and judging him with minds unclouded by prejudice or by passion."

Writer Remembers What Texas Did to Al Smith.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Texas, identified as an apostate in 1928 now asks for national support of its favorite son, John N. Garner. He is said to be qualified to perform the office of Vice President, and that may be an accurate statement. But why should I concern myself with his qualifications? Did Texas weigh the qualifications of Alfred E. Smith in the last presidential election?

100 Bonus Men Given Work at Hoover Dam

Las Vegas, Nev., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Leonard Blood, head of the employment bureau at Boulder City, announced today that about 100 former service men, most of them members of the bonus expeditionary force returning from Washington, have been given employment on the construction of Hoover Dam. The veterans stopped at Boulder City en route to their homes in California and Nevada.

War veterans are being offered first employment under the soldiers' preference clause, which is included in the contract of the Six Companies Inc., builders of the dam. Only a few jobs are open, officials announced, but by the middle of next month the pay roll probably will reach a maximum of 5,000 workmen.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE POLITE TOUCH ON THE BROAD HIGHWAY.

("Engineers on the Atlantic Coast Line will drop 'Thank You' letters to motorists who do not try to beat the train at grade crossings."—News Item.)

CARDS OF THANKS.

MR. BENSON SNIPE, engineer of the 2:05 express, wishes to express his appreciation of your kindness in heeding the whistle and correctly interpreting the bell.

It is a privilege to encounter such intelligence and good judgment, and Mr. Snipe assures you that the incident has afforded him a very genuine pleasure.

* * * *

Mr. Olaf Finch and crew hereby acknowledge their deep gratification at the recipient's conduct at the grade crossing just passed. When in the course of human contacts one encounters a motorist who understands a red light and obeys a Stop, Look and Listen sign, the experience is not forgettable.

Bon Voyage! Merry Christmas.

* * * *

Giovanni Petrosino, shanty watchman, desires to thank you for understanding his purpose in life. So many people, you know, do not even notice him.

Thanks again for sparing the gates, and come again as often as you like. Your grade crossing manners are beyond reproach.

* * * *

CARD FOR A FIRE CHIEF.

Sir: Your consideration in missing by an inch the undersigned pedestrian while going through Main street at 75 miles per hour on your way to lunch yesterday is deeply appreciated. It is little kindly acts such as this that make life bearable.

Very truly yours,

OSWALD P. SCHMALZMAN.

* * * *

FOR A MOTORIST FROM A BUS DRIVER.

To Whom It May Concern:

Mr. Gregory G. Kraut, driver of the 60-passenger bus, No. 678, on the Paradise Route, regrets that he tore off the rear end of your car, and trusts that you will regard it as a pardonable error due to an excusable desire to make time, and a rather natural miscalculation of distances.

It was just one of those things. Pray accept his deepest personal regards and his best wishes should he meet you again.

LITTLE BRIGHT EYES.

("Senator Smoot Predicts More Taxes."—Headline.)

There's a little ray of sunshine
Looming through the fog and soot—
There's a jolly little sunbeam,
And its name is Mr. Smoot.

When the days seem dark and gloomy
And the clouds refuse to scoot,
If you crave a ray of sunshine,
Send a boy for Mr. Smoot.

EXPENSIVE.

A POINT repeatedly made by Mayor Walker of New York City is that he never reads the newspapers. What a city needs is a newspaper-reading mayor. It costs a lot of public money and takes altogether too much time to have to tell him everything that's going on at a public hearing.

AN IDEA.

Mayor Walker—I wish Sherwood were here today.

Gov. Roosevelt—So do I wish he were here today.

* * * *

How about sending him a joint post-card reading, "Having a lovely time; wish you were here?"

Doctor Held for Murder In Woman's Operation

Oklahoma City, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Dr. Richard E. Thacker was held for trial without bail today on a murder charge growing out of the death, allegedly from an illegal operation, of Robbie Lou Thompson. The former army physician, already held for trial in a similar case, was expected to seek bail through a habeas corpus proceeding.

At his preliminary hearing today, he was accused by Miss Thompson's finance, Marvin Erdman, who said he witnessed the asserted operation and paid the physician $50.

State Completes Case In Trial of Defender

San Francisco, Aug 23 (A.P.).—After presenting testimony that Frank J. Egan, former San Francisco public defender on trial for murder, had avoided meeting Mrs. Jessie Scott Hughes for two or three years, the State completed its case today.

Egan and his friend, Albert Tinnin, are accused of the murder of the widow, a client of Egan's. The State contends Egan planned to have her killed so that he might benefit from her estate.

Canadian Doukhobor Leader Quits.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Peter Veregin, conservative leader of 15,000 Canadian Doukhobors, announced his resignation today. Others high in the sect wondered whether a violent fight over the chief post would split this Communistic society, with its millions of dollars' worth of property.

Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

A STUDY of the solar eclipse which will occur August 31 will be made by three Bureau of Standards staff scientists, now on their way to Nova Scotia, in an effort to obtain data which may lead to information on causes of fading and interference of radio reception. This will be the last opportunity for about 30 years for scientists to study a solar eclipse in this part of the American continent.

The Bureau of Standards scientists are the only ones who will be making observations from the standpoint of radio transmission exclusively. The scientists, T. R. Gilliland, K. A. Norton and E. Carnes, are taking two trucks with their equipment. Their observations will be made over a three-day period prior to the eclipse, which occurs at 3:30 p. m., E. S. T., and for three days subsequent to the eclipse.

At the same time observations will be made from the bureau here. This work will be under the direction of S. S. Kirby, who will be assisted by L. V. Berkner. The latter was a radio expert with Commander Byrd on his South Pole expedition.

COUNTESS OLGA ALBANI will sing an old Russian gypsy air, "Dark Eyes," during the program over WRC with the Revelers and Victor Young and his orchestra at 8 o'clock tonight. Another number will be "The Voice in the Old Village Choir," by the orchestra and quartet. A group of songs from "This Year of Grace" will be featured.

A tale of "Pirate Gold" and Capt. Kidd will be dramatized by N. B. C. actors (WRC, 7:30 p. m.). The story of a search for buried treasure forms the background for the sketch, which was written by George P. Ludlam.

CHARLES H. SWIFT, chairman of the board of Swift & Co., will open a new series of programs intended as an aid to business recovery, economic stabilization and rebirth of public confidence. This program (WRC, 9:45 p. m.) is entitled "Signposts of Improvement."

Little Jack Little's "There's Oceans of Love" will be offered by Singin' Sam during his regular period (WMAL, 7:15 o'clock) on the air tonight. He has also chosen "Memories and Roses" and "Let the Rest of the World Go By."

A new economic plan of action for the Nation will be the chief subject at the luncheon discussion of the Advertising Club of New York to be broadcast (WMAL, 12:15 p. m.). Grover A. Whalen, president of the ad club, will present the plan. His presentation will be answered by Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor.

HOWARD BARLOW'S symphony orchestra will be heard (WMAL, 10 p. m.) in the following concert:

Intermezzo from Act III, "Jewels of the Madonna" (Wolf-Ferrari); "Die Moldau" (Smetana); movement from "New World Symphony" (Dvorak); "Humoresque" (Tschaikowsky), and "Espana" (Chabrier).

St. Augustine Novena Concludes Sunday Night

A novena in honor of the patron saint of St. Augustine will be concluded Sunday night, the feast of St. Augustine, at St. Augustine's church.

A sermon by a Redemptionist missionary, to be announced, and special music will feature the service. The novena has been in progress throughout the week.

JOHN CRAIG, ACTOR AND PRODUCER, DIES

Heart Attack Proves Fatal to Man Who Rose From Extra to Prominence.

New York, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—John Craig, for 45 years an actor and theatrical producer, died yesterday at his home on Long Island. He was 64 years old.

The actor was seized with a heart attack as he was starting to New York for a meeting with old friends at the Players Club, of which he was a charter member, and died a few minutes later.

Born of a family of mountaineers in Columbia County, Tenn., he came to New York at 19, found several stage jobs and rose steadily. He succeeded John Drew as leading man of the Augustin Daly Co., and for many years was leading man with Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske.

Then he went to Boston and began producing original plays at the Castle Square Theater, where he strove to develop young playwrights and actors, and gained the backing of many Back Bay family subscribers.

He offered annually a $1,000 prize to the author of the best play produced in Prof. George Pierce Baker's Harvard University drama workshop.

Among the plays which won the prize was "Believe Me, Xantippe," in which Mary Young, Mr. Craig's wife, later starred on Broadway with John Barrymore, then a very young actor.

The actor is survived by Miss Young and his son, John Craig, jr., of Babylon, Long Island. Another son, Harmon Bushnell Craig, was killed in action with an ambulance unit during the World War. After his death, his parents entertained soldiers in overseas camps.

12 Areas Will Get Home Loan Banks

Maximum Districts' Total Under Law Is Agreed On; To Be Chosen Soon.

(Associated Press.)

The Home Loan Banking System inaugurated to aid small home owners will divide the country into twelve districts, the maximum number allowed under the law, Franklin W. Fort, chairman of the Home Loan Board, said yesterday the board had decided to establish the maximum. Under the law the minimum would have been eight.

Fort said the board would map out the districts as rapidly as possible and probably announce all of them at the same time. After the districts are selected the sites for the regional banks will be determined.

The next step will be for the board to determine the minimum capitalization for each regional bank, select officials and open the stock books for 30 days. The banks can not begin to operate until the end of the 30-day period, and if the capital determined upon has not been subscribed the board can call upon the Treasury to put up the remaining necessary money.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE.

"VIRGO."

If August 24 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:20 a. m.; from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 9:30 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 8:30 a. m. and from noon to 2 p. m.

The invisible powers that will tend to interfere with your own arrangement of life on August 24, and make demands upon your reserve forces. News may be received from a distance which may necessitate travel. Thoughts will be centered around home and family, and a possible "get-together" may be necessary for the sake of conference.

The child born on this August 24 will have an introspective and a sensitive nature. It will be alive to its own interests, with a tendency toward selfishness in this respect. It will be much "smarter" than the majority of its classmates, and will be entertaining as a companion.

If born on August 24 you rarely make a friendship or take up an interest of real benefit to yourself. This is because you feel compelled to sponsor lost causes and to befriend the "lame ducks" of life. Much of this is done out of the goodness of your heart, and although your efforts may turn out poorly, you never feel too nonplussed to tackle some new problem for someone else. Your own affairs somehow never seem to worry you very much.

Your qualifications, as a woman, are ideal for social service work, as nursing, or any vocation dealing with human ailments (physical, mental, moral or material). You never allow your ideas to become warped when you know for solid reasons that they are sound. Although a well meaning one, you like to be boss, and this applies both in and without the home.

If of the sterner sex, you should shine in law work, and if you have political aspirations, should follow them up. You have an open mind, and tend to move with the times. Your convictions are solid, and you will "gang your ain gait" with considerable stubborness. In a mental way you will gain more through travel, contact with people and experience, than through any course of education. You are good at providing within the home.

Successful people born on August 24:

Edward Williams Decker, banker.
Max Beerbohm, author and actor.
Charles H. Sabin, banker.
William A. Procter, manufacturer.
Charles F. McKim, architect.
William Walter Phelps, statesman.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A luxurious tea gown in "dregs of wine" velvet cut in an interesting manner on the bias, with the bias seam straight down the front, top, which is not detachable, of silver lahmay, and pleated trimming of emerald green taffeta ribbon. The skirt is lined in emerald green, while the sleeves are lined with the dregs of wine. (A Dah-ray design.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 23.—The natural waistline in the mode has certainly made a change in Miladi's chassis, hasn't it? Why, no matter how 'spensive and ever wearing one's girdle or corset has proven itself to be, if it is one of those that we wore for all those years and years that compressed the hips and raised a roll of fat up around the waist, we just can't wear it any longer, that's all.

Ah, them—wuz the happy days! When belts ran around the hips and blouses bloused, oh, so tenderly, over the life-saver belt of solid grease—hiding it from the vulgar gaze of the multitude, requiring the embrace of a surprised dancing partner to even discover it at all! But no longer, no longer. Now belts are belts and encircle the waistline, and Mademoiselle as well as Madame must pay attention to her corseting. If she be sufficiently slender and solidly built, no corset at all is often best—otherwise her girdle or corset must extend from below the fattest part of the calf to right under the bust—for the proper line.

And since something must hold it there, the newest offerings of the corsetieres are girdles and corsets, oh, very boneless and supple corsets, of course, but corsets nevertheless—which attach to the brassiere. And needless to say, the brassiere seems to give a natural and beautiful contour, neither disguising nor flattening the natural lines of the bust.

Another nice thing, they have discovered that the corset needs to be attached to the brassiere only in front and a bit at the sides—and that backless affairs, or at least low enough to be worn with the most decollete frock, are more and more the demand and the choice of style-wise buying ladies—meaning you and me, my desh.

• • • •

It's a truly lovely lady who knows her own tea-gowns, as it were! Because only lovely ladies wear 'em—and only lovely ladies of leisure have the leisure in which to wear them. Not that only lovely ladies of leisure are lovely ladies—oh, not by far!

But really now, it would take quite an elegante to wear the teagown that I designed for you today, for well, a number of reasons. First because "dregs of wine" although not actually a purple, is nevertheless a regal color to wear. Secondly because the bias seam right down the front of this gown makes it most revealingly form-fitting. And last, because in between the velvet of the gown and the silver lah-may of the top and sleeves, I must have emerald green taffeta ribbon in a graceful and unusual pleated effect which turns into a Medici collar. The skirt of this teagown is lined with emerald green, in satin though, and the sleeves are lined with exactly the same shade of dregs of wine as the gown, but in satin instead of velvet. And I await your comment.

• • • •

I tell you, the dress I am wearing right this minnit while I wait for Prince Charming to take me to dinner, is four years old! But do I feel uncomfortable in it? Not a bit! All because the new French maid (who is French this time) has made me a darling white velvet ribbon collar for it—and I am all new and as happy 'sif I were in a new dress in it. Well, the collar was so cunning and so easily made, that I just made you an illustrated leaflet telling you how to make it yourself. And threw in a few more collar designs for good measure. Why not send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet, and find out all about it, or them?

Au revoir.

CANNING IN TINS.

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

This is a year to apply to the garden the well-known system of the farmer who said, "We eat all we can and what we can't we can."

The sanitary or rim seal can is rapidly replacing all others. The part of the cover which comes in contact with the upper edge of the can is coated with a compound or fitted with a rubber composition film that makes a seal when the cover is crimped on. The can is sealed with a machine, which adds to the first cost of the equipment.

When tin cans are used those with special enamel linings are recommended for canning certain products. Foods containing certain red pigments lose their color unless canned in specially prepared bright gold enamel lined tins known as "R" cans. Cans with an enamel lining called "C," which is dull gold in appearance, should be used for canning foods high in protein. Otherwise these foods darken. "C" enameled cans should never be used for acid foods.

The Bureau of Home Economics mentions the following: Can in plain tin: Snap beans; chicken and other meats; greens, including spinach; okra and okra with tomato; mixed vegetables. Can in C enamel: Corn, succotash and peas. Can in R enamel: Beets, berries of all kinds, cherries, pimientoes, plums, rhubarb, tomatoes, tomato puree and juice. Pickled beets should go only in glass.

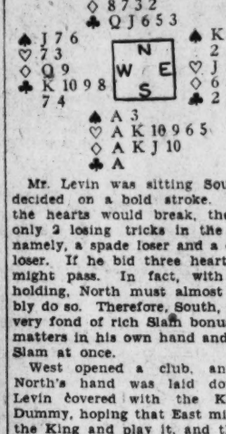
SLAM BIDDING.

BIDDING for Slams with a part-score is concededly a difficult proposition. The danger always exists, when a Forcing bid is not available, that the partner, believing that after all game is the thing, may drop the bidding, and thus the Slam bonus be missed.

Mr. Jess Levin, of New York, sent me the hand below, asking for my comments on the bidding and play.

South—Dealer.

North and South vulnerable; part-score—60.



Mr. Levin was sitting South, and decided on a bold stroke. Granted the hearts would break, there were only 2 losing tricks in the hand—namely, a spade loser and a diamond loser. If he bid three hearts, North might pass. In fact, with South's holding, North must almost inevitably do so. Therefore, South, who was very fond of rich Slam bonuses, took matters in his own hand and bid the Slam at once.

West opened a club, and when North's hand was laid down, Mr. Levin covered with the Knave in Dummy, hoping that East might hold the King and play it, and that thus he might find a discard for his losing spade. When this play did not materialize, Mr. Levin led a small heart to the Queen and then ruffed a club in his own hand. He felt that the diamond finesse involved too great an element of risk and that he might later, perhaps, use a losing diamond as an exit play from his own hand. Two rounds of trumps followed, leaving East with a high card in the trump suit. Hoping against hope that the age of miracles had not passed, Mr. Levin then laid down the Ace of diamonds, and when West dropped the 9, the situation looked much better. This was confirmed by the fall of the Queen on the next round, followed by two more rounds of diamonds, East discarding a spade on the last diamond. All that was now needed to complete the contract was for East to have the King of spades, as his hand was now void of cards in any other suit except the high trump. He was then put in with the lead of a trump, and at the end forced to lead away from the spade King and thus permit the making of the contract.

In sending in this hand, Mr. Levin asked me to comment on the bidding and play. The bidding, of course, was overbold. South's hand, containing as it did a singleton, suggested unbalance in other hands. Even with the Dummy exposed, it was apparent that there must be a diamond loser, except with favorable distribution. Safeguarding this, however, and dropping the diamond Queen either through a finesse or finding it only once-guarded, South still had to find a favorable distribution of the trumps to make his contract.

Slams carry with them rich bonuses, but they should be scientifically bid and should not depend upon as many favorable breaks as were required in this case. There is an old adage that "fortune favors the brave," but there is a wide dividing line between a gamble which may result disastrously and sheer timidity which should always lose.

Mr. Levin's bidding can only be described as a gamble. Its success depended on a fortunate outcome in two out of three possible eventualities. Regardless of the result, the Slam should not have been bid.

Today's Pointer.

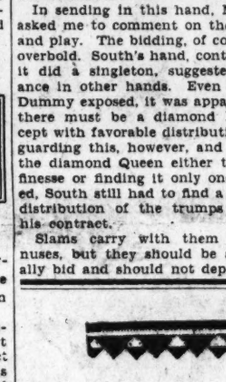
A direct bid for Slam without knowledge of whether or not partner can support the bid is a leap in the dark. Even when such bids have a happy outcome for their maker, they are not in accord with sound bidding principles.

Tomorrow's Hand.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Columbus U. Now In Its New Home

Charm of Lansing Residence Retained in Extensive Remodeling.

William E. Leahy, the president of Columbus University, announces the university is now located in its new building at 1323 Eighteenth street, which is the former home of Secretary of State Lansing. Remodeling has been completed, and the building is ready for the fall term, which starts September 19.

It is believed that this new move will help in the steady growth of Columbus University as it has been previously occupying rented quarters at 1314 Massachusetts avenue. The quarters are larger than those previously occupied, and there is more room for expansion.

The building has been remodeled to fit the use of a school, but has kept much of the original charm of the former residence. It is expected that many of the clubs and societies of the school will hereafter hold their social functions in the school building.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Answering Readers' Queries on Beauty.

DEAR Miss Pierce: Will you please help me with two problems?

What is the cause of a few tiny red spots that look like small blood blisters appearing on an otherwise perfect skin? They are on chest and legs.

How can I get rid of them? Second, when I was going to high school a girl pressed a blackhead out of my forehead with a pin and it left a large hole, which has never closed up. Anything I can do for it? GRETA.

Dear Greta: The red spots may be little broken blood vessels and the only way to permanently remove them would be by electrolysis. First, try some exercises. Bending from waist down several times, and in reclining position, lifting legs up. Apply a little zinc oxide ointment to red spots. Be careful of your diet, drink enough water, get sufficient sleep, relaxation, fresh air and exercise. Second, blackheads should be pressed out ever so gently with cushion parts of fingers, covered with cleansing tissues, and an astringent antiseptic immediately applied. The little hole will probably never close entirely. Try massaging with cream, followed by ice rub.

Dear Miss Pierce: I read your column every day and receive very helpful information, but have never read what I want to know. Am 18 and very shy. Hate to go to a doctor. For some time I have been troubled with hard lumps in both breasts and lately they have become very sore. I am afraid it is cancer. Would you please answer this in your column as soon as possible, because if it is I will go to the doctor at once. N. J.

My Dear N. J.: I am not a physician, and even a physician could not possibly diagnose your case at long distance. Although your query is an unusual one, I hasten to answer it via the column because I hope you will forget your shyness and go to a doctor. The lumps may not be cancer at all, but it is wisest to play safe. Physicians have warned the public to regard any abnormal lump or growth with suspicion. Why continue to live in nervous dread? If the lumps are not serious, it will be well worth a visit to the doctor to know that, and have your mind at peace. On the other hand, one can forestall severe ailments by catching them in time. Do go to your doctor immediately.

• • • •

Dear Miss Pierce: At 17, I am very flat-chested. Are there any exercises or ways you can recommend to help me? Do you think cold creams make hair on face longer. I have been told that many times. Is vaseline about the best thing that you can suggest to make eyelashes grow?

MARGUERITE W.

Dear Marguerite: Arm exercises are excellent, particularly swimming and tennis. Flinging arms to sides and circling several times. Note that any arm movements also exercise chest and bust. It is a mistaken impression that creams encourage hair growth. Superfluous hair is a pecularity caused by no one quite knows what, or why. Heredity, irregular gland functioning, friction may. Send for my bulletin on superfluous hair if you wish further information as to bleaching or removal. Yes, vaseline, or castor oil, or olive oil is recommended to make lashes grow. Brush with small eyelash brush.

Elsie Pierce, famous beauty lecturer, will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

HOT WEATHER HOUSING.

IN THE tropics the native lives in a home consisting of a thatched roof and the posts needed to sustain it. The floor is of earth and there are no side walls. The bed consists of a hammock swung from the posts. The wind can blow unrestrained through the house and over and under the occupants as they sleep in their hammocks. The disadvantages of such a habitation are lack of privacy, and the fact that insects, snakes, and animals have free access. There is no smoke in the house to drive out mosquitoes and flies but, as something of an offset, there is not much hiding room for insects.

The advantage is coolness. When the native acquires relative riches and rank he may build a civilized man's house for himself and, in doing so, he will add greatly to his discomfort due to heat.

White men who have lived long in the tropics build their houses with slatted side walls. In some houses, the slant of the slats can be adjusted so as to give almost unimpeded flow of air, or in the other direction, so as to close all openings in the wall. Such houses have much of the advantages of the native, wall-less huts, but they permit privacy, and insects do not have unlimited entry.

In most temperate climates where the summer is long and hot, houses are equipped with lattice doors. These leave a large opening below the summer door and also a larger one above it. The lattice work makes privacy possible but does not wholly exclude air. In these regions the houses are never built over cellars. The air circulates under the house and thus the floors are kept cool. In most instances the house would be cooler if it had a well ventilated cellar. To keep the first floor cool the windows of the cellar should be kept wide open. In very hot weather the occupants could keep cool by retiring to the cellar, the openings having been closed.

In Yuma, the hotels and at least some of the houses have double roofs. The top roof is placed two or three feet above the second one. There are no side walls between these roofs. No hot air is trapped under the roof in the houses. Hot air trapped under the roof is a prolific source of discomfort in most of our homes. In some instances this can be remedied by providing windows in the under roof space and keeping these open in hot weather.

A visitor in Havana, Cuba, is impressed by the high ceilings in living rooms. Old-fashioned Southern homes had high ceilings. There is no effort to get away from the evil effects of hot air trapped at the top of the room. Somewhat the same results can be had in rooms with lower ceilings by putting ventilators near the ceilings, or by using fans to blow the hot air away.

CLEAN

How many times has an otherwise perfect day been ruined for you because of the many smoky, grimy pots and pans that had to be scoured after dinner? With Electric Cookery, the modern way to a cooler, cleaner kitchen, you never have this irksome task to perform. When you cook with Electricity you cook with heat . . . there is no flame and therefore no smoke nor soot. Pots and pans remain so clean that a white cloth rubbed over their cooking surfaces will show no soil whatever. Walls and curtains never get that "smoky look" so noticeable in kitchens where Electric Cookery has not yet been adopted.

If you'll take just a moment to consider the great saving in time and temper that can be yours by using Electric Cookery in your home, you'll understand why so many homemakers are enthusiastic over it. This advantage plus the low cost of operation and the many other outsanding features which only the Modern Electric Range can give you, are well worth your earnest consideration.

COMMODITY CREDIT COMPANY ORGANIZED

Directors of $50,000,000 Concern Represent 20 New York Banks.

New York, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Organization of the Commodities Finance Corporation, the new $50,000,000 organization formed to help finance the marketing of commodities, was completed today at a meeting of the directors.

Mortimer N. Buckner, head of the New York Clearing House Association and of the National Credit Corporation, was elected president.

C. A. McCain, chairman of the board of the Chase National Bank, was selected to head the executive committee.

The directors attending the meeting represented twenty New York City banks which have agreed to subscribe to the corporation's notes and sponsor its activities.

In explaining the corporation's activities, which will begin within a few days and will be carried on through two subsidiaries, Mr. Buckner said:

"The plan of organization and operation of the Commodities Finance Corporation has been formulated and put into effect by the New York subscribing banks for the sole purpose of extending additional credit facilities to users of basic commodities throughout the country. The corporation, through its subsidiaries, will supplement the usual sources of credit ordinarily available to mills and other manufacturers desirous of purchasing and carrying commodities."

Mr. Buckner again emphasized the corporation and its subsidiaries were themselves prohibited from purchasing commodities. Details of how credit is to be extended on commodity loans will be announced later, he said.

Credit of New England Banks Held Sufficient

Boston, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Carl P. Dennett said tonight he would go to Washington tomorrow to tell President Hoover and the President's economic conference that New England banking institutions have ample credit for legitimate trade purposes.

Dennett, chairman of the banking and industrial committee of the First Federal Reserve District (New England), finds, he said, there is no need for outside credit from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation or similar organizations in New England.

Prince Georges Plans Righteousness Campaign

A "civic righteousness" campaign in Prince Georges County will be inaugurated September 6 when the Ministers Association will meet at Upper Marlboro with the county commissioners, the chief of police and the sheriff. "All who desire a better moral condition are requested to be present," the announcement stated.

In addition to the Marlboro meeting, pastors and churches in the county are reported to be preparing to hold mass meetings in each community. The Ministers Association also is holding a religious census through the medium of the neighborhood churches. Some of the communities have been canvassed, and others will be when the pastors obtain census slips from B. P. Robertson, chairman of the committee.

Writ Is Issued Against Alleged Rum Smuggler

Chicago, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—At the request of Federal prosecutors in Baltimore, United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker today issued a warrant for the arrest of Guy C. Parkhurst, alias Frank Weber, alleged leader of a liquor smuggling gang under indictment there.

Landis said Parkhurst did not appear for arraignment at Baltimore, and that Federal agents were informed he had been seen in Chicago.

U. S. COMPETITION FOUGHT BY DOCTORS

Government Is Accused at Shannon's Hearing by Indiana Physician.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Doctors find themselves beset with Government competition, the Shannon congressional committee was told at its hearing here today.

Dr. Joseph H. Weinstein, of Terre Haute, Ind., president-elect of the Indiana Medical Association, voiced a protest against the Government's activities in the field of medicine.

The Shannon committee, headed by Representative Joseph B. Shannon, of Missouri, is making a study of Government competition with private business and will make a report to the next session of Congress.

Barge Service Opposed.

Prior to hearing the protest of the physicians the committee heard a number of witnesses who oppose the Government's operation of barge service on the Mississippi River.

Rome C. Stephenson, a South Bend banker and former president of the American Bankers Association, speaking in behalf of the railroads, said the transportation act passed by Congress implied that the rail lines would be given a "square deal" so that they might earn sufficient revenue to pay a fair rate of interest on the money invested in them. The banker then questioned the fairness of the Government using taxes collected from the railroads to construct barge canals, improve rivers and operate barge lines which compete with the railroads.

George C. Miller, president of the Dodge Manufacturing Co., of Mishawaka, another witness, said he operated barges on the Ohio River twenty years ago.

Secret Contracts Charged.

Mr. Miller asserted the Federal barge service had entered into secret contracts with some shippers.

"Have you any reason to believe contracts discriminatory to others have been entered into?" asked Representative Robert F. Rich, of Pennsylvania, a member of the committee.

"Yes," replied Mr. Miller. "I know that rates of which the public knows nothing have been made."

Mr. Miller said he would produce evidence of such secret contracts for the information of the committee.

C. C. Webber, of St. Louis, president of the Upper Mississippi Barge Line Co., said:

"The people of the upper Mississippi Valley look forward confidently to the eventual private operation of the services now being performed by the Government, but they are unalterably opposed to the termination of these operations and the dismemberment of the service while the channels are incomplete, and it is, therefore, impossible to induce private enterprises to take up the service now."

Dr. Weinstein's protest against the Government's competition in the field of medicine was supported by several local physicians.

MILITIA HEARS TALK ON ARMY PROBLEMS

Maj. Sylvester Addresses Guardsmen at Camp on Fire Power.

Special to The Washington Post.

Camp Pollard, Virginia Beach, Va., Aug. 23.—Maj. L. McD. S. Sylvester Regular Army instructor, today opened the second day of the intensive two weeks' training of the Twenty-ninth Division staff and enlisted assistants with a lecture on the importance of the fire power of a division.

In the afternoon members of the staff fired for the record at the rifle range. This is the first time in five years that the staff has fired. Washington officers who qualified are Capt. P. T. Bernsdorff, of the Quartermaster Corps, and Col. P. A. Nevitt. Maj. Gen. Stephan did not complete the course.

The general staff section under Sergt. Paul Chalupsky, secretary to the District of Columbia auditor, outlined their first problems on mobilization and wrote up training programs and orders.

Sergt. Charles S. East, of 3555 Eleventh street northwest, and Private Thomas H. Harris, of 2030 G street northwest, both of the Signal Corps section, went with Col. Herbert L. Grymes on a reconnaissance tour of inspection of the telephone service of the Coast Guard stations.

District officers, Maj. William T. Roy, Maj. Sidney Morgan, Maj. George J. Allen, Capt. Bernsdorff, Capt. Just C. Jensen, Lieut. Leighton B. Hastings and Capt. Louis S. Philhower were serenaded last night by Corpl. Garrett Rush, Sergt. East and Corpl. Hall. The trio played an extended program of guitar and banjo music. Col. John W. Oehmann, division engineer officer and building inspector of the District of Columbia, was also present.

NEIGHBOR CRITICIZES CAMP FOR TOURISTS

Moral Conditions in Prince Georges Site Told to County Officials.

Tourist camps in Prince Georges County came under fire from two angles yesterday when complaints about the moral conditions at one of them were made to the county commissioners, while Dr. A. B. Hooton, public health officer, revealed that he was also inspecting the camps from a sanitary standpoint.

J. J. Williamson made the complaint to the commissioners, naming a camp on the Baltimore boulevard between Hollywood and Beltsville, on property owned by J. C. Stewart. Mr. Williamson said some of the cabins were built within 43 feet of his house, and that he was disturbed all night by occupants of the place. The actual tourists, he said, gave no cause for complaint, the noise being made by persons in District cars who spent the night at the place.

He also claimed that the permit for the place was obtained through misrepresentation, the operators stating that adjoining property owners did not object. Mr. Williamson said he was not consulted and had not consented to the camp. He said he had complained also to the Park and Planning Commission. The county commissioners decided to wait until the commission acts on the complaint.

Dr. Hooton's inspection of the camps was made to enforce the State sanitary regulations which were recently put in operation. They require that the camps be inspected by the health officer and that a permit for their operation be obtained from the State Board of Health. Some of the camps in the county, Dr. Hooton said, may be licensed at once, but at others he has suggested improvements which must be made before the license will be issued.

'AL' SMITH BECOMES EDITOR OF MAGAZINE, NEW OUTLOOK

questions about what part he will take in the Roosevelt-Garner campaign.

"I'm stepping out of my political role entirely when I move in here as an editor," he said.

"Does that mean this job will prevent you from taking an active part in the Democratic campaign?"

"It doesn't prevent me from doing anything," he answered quickly. "As editor of this magazine I can do anything I like, because the magazine will not be identified with politics."

"The question will arise," some one said, "of whether this will mean you will not be able to deliver speeches on behalf of the Democratic party, which you have said you will support."

"If any one raises that question let them try to find out the answer," Smith replied in closely clipped words—then looked out the window and grinned.

He said the purpose of his magazine would be to "try to point out the new outlook in all fields of life."

"What is that new outlook?" he was asked, and quickly replied:

"I'm going to write that myself."

When the question of the literary character of the publication was raised, Smith chewed on his cigar and said:

"Remember, I don't read books. I've stated that 400 times. I don't want to reverse my position now just because I'm an editor.

"Yes, I read about seven papers a day and some magazines, but books—no, never any books. I'm a listener, I guess."

He said he would do most of his magazine work at night, would dictate all his own articles, would pass on all contributions, and would retain the other connections he holds in the business and financial world.

"Will you talk about the Hoover-Roosevelt campaign?" he was asked.

"We're going to comment on subjects pressing people for solution. The magazine won't take partisan sides. This has nothing to do with Hoover or Roosevelt or Norman Thomas.

"I've always had the urge to do something like this, but have never had the time. For the last fifteen or eighteen months, however, I've been doing some writing and I like it. Letters I have gotten make me feel I've been doing some good—without much labor."

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WITHOUT the customary blare of brass and beating of tomtoms, usually deemed a necessary concomitant of such conclaves, the Warner Bros. first annual national exhibit has been going on in the Capital for the past two days—Monday and Tuesday, August 22 and 23. Primarily for the benefit of the exhibitors active in the Washington territory, vagrant members of the press and others, directly or indirectly concerned with the merit of the new season's product, have wandered in and out of both the Ambassador Hotel and the Ambassador Theater, where the principal goings-on of the exposition have centered, and have come away from both with the firm conviction that Warner films are going to be well out in front during the months that immediately impend.

Thirteen pictures have been screened for the edification of the visiting showmen, and a consensus of opinion, I am sure, is that a majority of the baker's dozen are "box-office" productions.

And why wouldn't they be, with George Arliss, Ruth Chatterton, Richard Barthelmess, Kay Francis, William Powell, Douglas Fairbanks, jr., Loretta Young and all of the others on the Warner-First National lot at the top of their forms?

But how did the boys and girls manage to keep so quiet about it that only a few knew they were here? Shades of Jim Anderson!

Among the most interesting of the new releases is "Doctor X," the first mystery drama ever filmed in its entirety in Technicolor. This is the subject, as you will recall, that is to be given a midnight "shudder showing" at the Earle tomorrow at 11:30 p. m.

Probably because Gil Boag and Charles T. Trego, sponsors of "Isle of Paradise," the personally conducted tour of the Island of Bali, currently on view at Loew's Columbia, stopped there, the Shoreham tonight is dedicating its popular Terrace to a "Night in the South Sea Isles." Not that Bali is strictly South Seas so much as that Gil and Charlie are gentlemen of wide influence!

Sinuous and shivery hula dancers, leis to dangle athwart the neck; the plaintive wail of steel guitars and the mellow strum of ukuleles will conjure the carefree spirit of waving palms—and this has no reference to the waiters—silver beaches, coral reefs, endless sunshine and the deep moonlight of the tropics. Most notable, so I am told, is the program of iridescent music which the youthful Barnee has arranged for the occasion.

My unimpeachable logic tells me that "iridescent music" must be like a pigeon's neck, and so I imagine "La Paloma" will not be overlooked—even if it is Caribbean!

Herb Williams, wowing the customers as headliner of the stage bill at Loew's Fox this week, has been approached for the Victor Moore part in the Chicago company of "Of Thee I Sing." This is the role of the Vice President and one that the droll Dr. Williams would play right down to the ground. It is by no means a certainty, however, that he will take it—for a variety of reasons, mostly personal.

A bulletin from Mr. Ray Henderson, most faithful of the stentors, advises that recent cablegrams from London indicate that Guthrie McClintic will produce the late Edgar Wallace's "The Case of the Frightened Lady" in the Belasco Theater in New York the end of September. Mr. McClintic is reported to have sailed from Southampton on Monday aboard the S. S. Bremen for New York to begin preparations for the American presentation of the Wallace mystery drama which ran for a season at Wyndham's Theater, London.

George Sidney, who recently appeared in person in the Capital, is at the moment a guest of the Pat Rooneys (Marion Bent) at their estate on Long Island. He leaves soon for the Pacific Coast to make another "Cohens and Kellys" feature with Charlie Murray, breaking the long jump by a few personal appearances en route.

Across the continent by train and stage, as you might say.

FORMING OF MARKET ASSOCIATION URGED

Montgomery Idea Contained in Seven-Point Program of Extension Service.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

An outline of a plan for operation of the Farm Women's Market of Montgomery County, Md., was presented yesterday by the State extension service. The plan was signed by Miss E. M. Turner, who is acting as home demonstration agent for the county; O. W. Anderson, county farm agent, and Dr. T. B. Symons, director of the extension service.

The plan involves a seven-point program and provides for operation of the farm women's market on safe, sound and economical principles, according to officials of the service.

Pledging the cooperation of the extension service in every possible way except for "any proposal that in our opinion would be doomed to failure by virtue of excessive overhead cost or the contracting of an enormous debt," the officials offered the following plan:

First, to form a cooperative association composed of members who wish to sell in the market, with nominal dues and issuance of stock if necessary; second, to make a survey of the potential possibilities for continuation of the market through the winter months, ascertaining, as far as possible, the produce possible to sell and the probable purchasing consumption, to give a reasonable approximation of necessary costs of operation, part of the profits to be set aside as an emergency reserve; third, the board of directors should select a manager and conduct the business in the name of the officers of the association; fourth, the board of directors should consider the possibility of a permanent location, preferably a rented one within the prospective resources of the organization; fifth, purchase of land should be considered as a last resort, since it would be extremely inadvisable at this time to contract a heavy debt, pointing out that it is so easy for a cooperative association to contract a debt which will defeat the purpose of the group, as the history of many such enterprises show, and the extension service for this reason pleads for a careful study and survey; sixth, the safest policy appears to be to exhaust every possible means of obtaining a building which will protect the women and their wares in winter and permit it remaining open in winter; seventh, to enlist the cooperation of the citizens of the county rather than follow a policy which would antagonize.

In the meantime, the opening of the farm market today at its usual stand in Leland will provide the paradoxical problem of two farm market groups, each antagonistic to the other and yet both still operating under auspices of the extension service.

M. L. Sperry, president of the Washington Gas Light Co., will speak tonight at a meeting of the Kensington Chamber of Commerce on gas rates in Montgomery County. The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock in Kensington School.

The chamber is one of the organizations in the county seeking to have the county gas rates reduced.

Delegates and alternates to the Montgomery County Civic Federation will be elected at a brief business session preceding the address. Arrangements for the fall rally will be discussed.

Two resolutions were approved at a meeting of the board of directors of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce and will be presented to the chamber. The resolutions ask that gas and telephone users in Montgomery County's metropolitan district be accorded the same rates and services as are extended to the residents of the District of Columbia.

The first resolutions ask the Maryland Public Service Commission to call a hearing at the earliest date to consider phone rate reduction, while the second asks that gas rates be reduced immediately and that if they are not reduced the public service commission is requested to call a hearing for that purpose.

The resolutions were prepared by Samuel Stonebreaker, chairman of public utilities committee of the chamber. The directors also approved holding a special mass meeting on September 21 under auspices of the membership committee at the Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School.

Steeplechases, flat races and other racing events will be features at the annual carnival of the Sandy Spring Volunteer Fire Department this afternoon at Sherwood High School. A supper will be served in the school building.

A high light on the program will be a baseball game between Dayton, Howard County, and the Colesville teams, umpired by Nick Altrock. The races will begin at 3 o'clock while the ball game will begin at 4 p. m. A dance will follow the supper.

County volunteer fire departments will participate in a hook-up contest as a part of the program.

The annual meeting of the Federated Clubs of Catholic Women, scheduled for August 31 at St. Mary's Church, Barnesville, Md., has been postponed to September 1.

Alexandria Council to Air Rezoning Plan Tomorrow

Special Meeting to Be Held on Reclassification of Square as Residential; Young Democrats Club Will Be Formed Friday.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The Alexandria City Council will hold a special meeting at 3 o'clock tomorrow to consider rezoning of all the area in the square bounded by Franklin, Jefferson, Washington and Columbus streets, except a strip of land fronting on Columbus street between Franklin and Jefferson streets, from the present classification of "D" commercial zone to "A" and "B" residential zone.

This square was changed some time ago from its original residential classification to commercial, but the council later proposed to rescind its action and restore the residential classification, because the square borders on Mount Vernon Memorial highway, and it was considered undesirable to permit its use for commercial purposes.

The council also will consider an appropriation to improve Alexandria-Washington turnpike, also known as the River road, from the overhead bridge of the R., F. & P. Railroad to the city limits of Four-Mile Run. The city engineer has estimated the cost of a 28-foot bituminous macadam roadway at $45,000, the distance to be improved being 7,360 feet.

The matter was presented to the council at its August 1 meeting, at which time it was shown the city would receive $13,605 from the State which could be applied to this roadway. A counterproposal that only a portion of the work be done at this time, using up the State funds, was not definitely acted upon.

A meeting has been called for 7 p. m. Friday in the office of James Reese Duncan, 107 North Fairfax street, to form a Young Democrats Club in Alexandria, the new organization to become affiliated with the Young Democrats Club of Virginia, founded in Richmond on June 8 last.

The object of the organization is to expound, disseminate and support the principles of Government, to foster a closer relationship among the young Democrats of Virginia, and to instill and preserve in the young people of Virginia an interest in Government, and to promote their participation in governmental affairs.

Any Democrat between the ages of 18 and 45 is eligible for membership in the club at the regular membership fee of $1, but Democrats in good standing over 45 are eligible upon payment of a minimum fee of $5.

R. E. Lee Camp, Sons of Confederate Veterans, will hold a special meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight in Lee Camp Hall to go on record as opposed to the 10 per cent cut made at the last General Assembly in the Confederate pensions, and also the pensions to widows.

A free cheat and tuberculin clinic will be held at the city health office, Cameron street, from 3 to 5 p. m. today, conducted by Drs. H. A. Latane and Llewellyn Powell. The same hours will prevail at the free clinic tomorrow afternoon for colored persons.

Miss M. L. Williamson, of Washington, will give the third of her series of lectures before the Cameron Club and its guests at 10:30 a. m. today in the George Mason Hotel.

Union services will be held at 8 p. m. Sunday in Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, with the Rev. Edwin B. Wilcox, of Falls Church, as the preacher.

NATIONALS RALLY IN 13TH TO DOWN TRIBE, 5 TO 4

Rosedale Team Lands 3rd Playground Title In Miniature Olympiad

2,000 Athletes Compete for Glory and Post Trophy.

Five Meet Marks Are Broken in Games at Central.

derfer, Miss Sibyl Baker, Lieut. F. B. Butler and other local notables looked on with evident pleasure as the vast scene unfolded before them.

Not the least impressive of the early ceremonies was the recital of the Olympic oath by the athletes after the parade of playgrounds and the rendition of the national anthem by the band from the National Training School.

Although the breaking of five records must be given precedence in the distribution of laurels, it was a thrilling nonrecord-breaking race, the 880-yard run, which brought several thousand spectators to their feet to give a tremendous ovation to Johnny Asero, swarthy little Rosedale Italian, who displayed the spirit of a lion and the leg drive of a whippet to win the gruelling run in 2:10.

Coming from third place in the last 30 yards with a sprint that ran his opponents into the ground, Asero streaked across the line ahead of Keith Morrison, of Hamilton, the pace setter, and Frank Patterson, of Virginia Avenue.

With suitable ceremonies, Mrs. Ruth Britt, woman director of Rosedale, bestowed a laurel wreath on the head of the winner.

McChesney Breaks Record.

Alvin McChesney, Brookland Playground boy, established a notable mark of 10 2-5 seconds in the unlimited 100-yard dash, clipping 2-5 of a second off the four-year-old mark. Two of the four victorious Rosedale relay teams shattered records en route. The unlimited quartet, running 440 yards, negotiated the distance in 47 2-5 seconds, breaking a two-year-old mark by 2 1-5 seconds, while the 100-pound foursome clipped 2-5 of a second off the four-year-old 360-yard mark. Owen Bromley, 115-pound Georgetown boy, ran 70 yards in 7 3-5 seconds to slice 2-5 second off a two-year mark, and Earl Wheeler completed the rout of Old Man Record by nipping the same amount of time off the three-year-old mark of 7 2-5 seconds for the 60-yard dash for 85 pounders.

Seventy-pound Victor DeStephan, of Georgetown, gained a measure of fame by jumping 14 feet 9 inches in his division's broad jump, which was an inch more than the "big boys," the 85 pounders could do.

Today at 10 o'clock another Washington Post trophy goes on the athletic block as the colored boys' meet is held at Walker Stadium, with nearly 1,000 youths competing.

Baltimore and Detroit Win Legion Games

Gastonia, N. C., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Baltimore, Md., and Detroit, Mich., overpowered their rivals from smaller cities in first round play in the Eastern finals of the American Legion Junior baseball championship here today. The Marylanders defeated Albany, Ga., 3 to 1, while Detroit overpowered Trenton, N. J., 12 to 6. The winners will meet tomorrow.

Alexandria, Va., and Springfield, Mass., who drew first round byes, likewise will play tomorrow. Winners of the two contests will meet in the finals Thursday.

In the Wake Of the Game

BUCKY HARRIS and his Jungle Cats invade the Capital City this afternoon when the first of a four-game set will be played. Manager Johnson plans to call on "Prof." Monte Weaver, while Earl Whitehill likely will do the twirling for the Tigers, who hold a slight 8-to-7 edge in series play to date.

As Friday is an open date on the schedule, the Washington Club has announced that the usual Friday invitation to ladies and Boy Scouts will be extended tomorrow.

First Baseman Eddie Morgan, of the Indians, made but four hits in the last dozen games and, as a result, was benched yesterday in favor of Bruce Connatser.

Buddy Myer likely will be back in the Washington line-up today. He reported yesterday that much of the stiffness had left his ailing right hip.

Cronin went to short left to make a jumping overhead catch of Burnett's short looper in the second.

Two Nats were caught stealing in the first, Kuhel heading for second when the hit-and-run failed with Bluege up, and Cronin later being nipped at third, when he thought he had big enough lead to make the theft.

Had Cissell allowed Porter to take Bluege's pop in the third, Kuhel could not have scored after the

Stirring Finishes Mark Annual Playground Meet

Jap Doubles Net Team Beaten

Wood and Stoeffen Again Beat Stars From Nippon.

By BILL KING.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 23 (A. P.).—The remainder of the chaff was threshed out of the fifty-first annual national doubles tennis championship at Longwood today and all of the wheat was harvested for the quarter-final round.

It took two rounds of play to eliminate all of the secondary teams from nearby points, admitted into this classic this year because the U. S. L. T. A. was unable to finance the customary delegations of sectional champions.

Japanese Team Beaten.

Today's was a cut-and-dried affair. For the second time in a week, Sidney Wood, of New York, and Lester Stoeffen, of Los Angeles, blasted Japanese hopes by eliminating Takeo Kuwabara and Jiro Satoh. A few days ago at Newport, the American youngsters trounced the Japs in four sets. They needed but three today, 6—3, 7—5, 6—3, to advance against the defending champions, Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn.

These titlists had a light workout defeating Talcott Banks, of Hartford, Conn., and Walter W. Weld, Boston, 6—0, 6—2, 6—1. The second seeded Americans, Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill, both of California, moved on by upsetting H. H. Hyde and John Gow, of Hartford.

Two foreign teams were among the eight sets of survivors. Henry W. "Bunny" Austin and Frederick J. Perry, of England, won as they pleased against Piatt Spencer and Austin Darcy, of Boston, 6—3, 6—3, 6—2, but Henri Cochet and Marcel Bernard, of France, had to play overtime to eliminate the smooth-working Turner brothers from Brookline, 6—2, 6—3, 5—7, 6—1. The Frenchmen, however, were never extended.

Austin-Perry Meet Lott Shields.

In tomorrow's international tilts, Austin and Perry will clash with George Lott and Frank Shields, the fourth-seeded Americans, and Cochet and his young partner will carry the tricolor in action against Gregory Mangin and Berkley Bell, last year's runners up.

The other quarter-final will be an all-California battle, Vines and Gledhill versus Jack Tidball and Elbert Lewis.

GERMAN BREAKS SWIM MARK.

Cannstatt, Germany, Aug. 23 (A.P.). Paul Schwartz, German swimmer, today set a new European record for 200 meters breast stroke of 2 minutes 45.2 seconds. This is six-tenths of a second under Leonard Spencer's world mark of 2:44.6 and three-tenths of a second under Reizo Koike's Olympic record of 2:44.9.

Grimm Signs as 1933 Pilot Of Cubs at $30,000 Salary

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Two of the happiest men in baseball, on their own say so, sat back in their chairs today and watched ink dry on a piece of paper that settled the management of the Chicago Cubs for another year.

They were William L. Veech, president of the club, and Charley Grimm, who succeeded Rogers Hornsby as manager not more than a month ago. Grimm signed a one-year contract for the season of 1933. President Veech said he received a substantial increase in salary, which, it is understood, will be $30,000.

The Cubs have flourished under Grimm's management. When he succeeded Hornsby, they were in second place and when he signed today they were leading the National League pennant race by a margin of three games. Grimm, first baseman with the club since 1925, has become one of the most popular managers that ever piloted a Chicago National League club. He holds the admiration of the players and of the fans.

"If you knew how I wanted this chance, you would know how I feel," Grimm smilingly said. "We'll win the pennant this year or bust."

President Veeck characterized Grimm as "the best fighter of the league." Since taking over the club the Cubs have won 16 out of 21 games, including today's victory.

"We are highly satisfied with the way Grimm has handled the team," President Veeck said. "Not only have the Cubs won games under his direction, but the players are enthusiastic. We felt that Grimm should be signed at this time instead of going into the winter with all of the managerial speculation. The fact that he is signed should contribute to the peace of mind of his players."

LEHMAN'S 137 WINS GOLF MEDAL

By PAUL MICKELSON.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Two storms hit the Western Amateur Golf Championship today. One, a wicked blow from the West, ripped the score sheets off the board and blew three of them into the ether; the other was stirred up by Johnny Lehman, of Chicago, who stormed the dugouts of the championship Rockford Country Club course with a sizzling 66 that gave him the tournament medal with a record-smashing 36-hole total of 137 shots.

Lehman's total, knitted with a 71 yesterday and his great 66 today, chipped two shots from the all-time Western medal record established at Lochmoor, Detroit, by Dexter Cummings, veteran Chicago star, in 1925.

Martin Appears Early Winner.

"Dick" Martin, of Chicago, looked like a cinch for the medal earlier when he posted a 68 for a total of 140 shots. The record-setting field of 187 starters, shot such consistently good golf that the 152 class had to play off to get in the match play bracket of 32.

Beyond Lehman's score, which gave him nine under fours for the last 27 holes, the qualifiers were bunched within an area of twelve shots. George Dawson, of Chicago, and Charlie Seaver, of Stanford University, football star and member of the Walker Cup team, tied for third place with 143s. Pete Jordan, of Des Moines, finished in a fifth-place tie with L. E. Bunning, of Chicago, with 145.

FAIRENO AT HAWTHORNE.

Chicago, Aug. 23 (U.P.).—William Woodward's Faireno, outstanding 3-year-old race horse, arrived today from Saratoga, N. Y., for the $25,000 added Hawthorne Handicap here Saturday. C. V. Whitney's Equipoise and A. C. Bostwick's Mate are expected Thursday.

SHIKAT WINS ON MAT AT BOLLING

DICK "NO FOOLIN'" SHIKAT, former claimant of the world's wrestling championship of New York and Pennsylvania, made mud cakes out of a lumbering mass of protoplasm named Jack McArthur last night at Bolling Field before a dispassionate audience of 1,000.

Shikat won in two straight falls, the first of which came after 24 minutes and the second after but one minute. McArthur hastened his downfall in the first round by herding Herr Shikat in a corner and butting the formerly royal tummy with some sizable butts, but butter-colored Shikat stepped out of the way of one butt and the force of the miss caused McArthur to roll out of the ring and land with quite a thud at the feet of the $2 customers and more accomplished deadheads.

Swann Slow in Counting.

Umpire Swann counted up to nine, with frequent pauses to enable McArthur to pick himself up and reenter the ring, and he waited so long after intoning "nnnnnnn-iiiiiii-nnnnnneeeeee" that Shikat walked over and pulled the 230-pound Celt over the top rope and soon had pressed his shoulders.

McArthur limped back into the ring for the second fall and Shikat immediately clamped a leg lock on the injured member and the misery was soon over.

The "Masked Marvel" was revealed in an early bout, when Glenn Munn threw him in 6 minutes and then unmasked the behemoth. Mugsy Morris, and his floundering bridgework, later announced that the "marvel's" name was Jack Atckovis, or sumpin. Other bouts saw Mike Romano and Babe Caddock do a 30-minute draw and Mike Mazurki throw Bill Middlekauf in 15 minutes.

League Mark By Cubs as Phils Bow

Chicagoans, Credited With But One Assist, Win, 5-1.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (U.P.).—The Chicago Cubs tied the major league record and set a new National League mark today when they made only one assist while defeating the Phillies, 5 to 1. This fourth consecutive win over Philadelphia increased the Cubs' first-place lead to three and one-half games over the idle Brooklyn Dodgers.

The lone assist came in the ninth inning when Shortstop Mark Koenig threw out Lee at first base. This tied the majors' record made by the Chicago White Sox against the Boston Red Sox, May 19, 1927, and since equaled once.

National League Mark Tied Five Times.

The former National League record was two, made by Pittsburgh in 1908, and since equaled five times.

Boston Braves replaced the Phillies in fourth place by virtue of a 6 to 3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Larry French pitched the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4 to 3 win over the New York Giants. This victory enabled the Pirates to advance to within one game of the second-place Dodgers.

Crowder Unable to Hold Pace After Nats Take Lead.

McAfee Good in Relief Role and Gets Credit for Win.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

AFTER apparently coasting to victory, "General" Alvin Crowder suddenly came a cropper with two dead in the ninth inning yesterday and the Nationals were forced to travel four extra heats before finally gaining the verdict over the Indians, 5 to 4. The triumph gave the natives the odd game in the five-game series, a 10-to-9 edge in season's play, and enabled them to pull up to within a game and a half of the third-place Clevelanders.

The Tribe, once it knotted the string, did all of the threatening in the overtime part of the fracas, getting a man as far as second with one dead in the tenth and having the runways loaded when the final out was turned in in the thirteenth. It was in the lower portion of this session that the Nats suddenly struck and abruptly ended the game. With one dead, Manush singled, took third on Cronin's double, limited as such by a ground rule, and scored when Rice delivered with a liner to right.

Crowder Wins Debate But Not Game.

Had Crowder not proven to be such a fine debater, he might have been credited with his eighteenth victory of the season. With two dead and the tying run on second, Manager Walter Johnson went to the hill to bench the "General" in the ninth. He talked the pilot out of doing so and the result was that Averill singled and the string was knotted at 4-all. Then Bill McAfee toed the slab and managed to escape being scored on until his mates broke up the game in the thirteenth, thus giving him credit for his second major league victory in as many starts.

Mel Harder, "Sarge" George Connally and Jack Russell did the allen flinging and the Nats scored four runs off the starter and their winning one off Russell. But two native markers were molded in the first as a result of a walk, Bluege's single, Manush's double and singles by Cronin and Reynolds—all in succession opening the game—because two

LITTLE AMERICA WINS EASED UP IN HAWTHORNE FEATURE

Choice Scores Handily by A Length

Bonnie Maureen Finishes Second, With Kensington Third.

Calvert's Good Ride Figures in Victory of Favorite.

HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Little America, owned by Mrs. V. M. Duncan, of New York, given a clever ride by M. Calvert, gave a small field a lesson in getting away fast today in the Maple Crest Purse at Hawthorne, and stayed out in front to beat Bonnie Maureen by a length.

Rated as one of the fastest breaking horses on the American turf, Little America took the lead at the rise of the barrier and won eased up. Kensington finished third, less than a length behind Bonnie Maureen. Little America was the form players' standard bearer and paid $3.28 to win. The time for the 6 furlongs was 1:13.

Sun Archer Scores at Saratoga.

Saratoga Race Track, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Willis Sharpe Kilmer's good 2-year-old, Sun Archer, displayed impressive form to capture top honors in the Sanford, 6-furlong dash for juveniles, which headlined the program here today. With Sonny Workman riding his second winner of the afternoon, the Sun Briar colt finished resolutely, to score by a neck over William Ziegler, jr.'s, Grand Time. The latter beat F. A. Griffith's Sarada by a half length for the place.

In hanging up his second straight victory, Sun Archer sped the distance in 1:12 4-5. Coupled with Sun Alley, the winner was favorite at 9 to 5. His success was worth $4,025, and after the running Mr. John Sanford presented Mr. Kilmer with a handsome cup.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code)

—By Ken Kling

Next Saturday in the Grand Union Stakes, Joe has spotted a baby that no one in the world will pick; in fact, this baby has never won a race and may be 40 to 1. Yesterday, Asbestos' horse ran second and Joe's ran third and the bank rolls are: Joe, $217.55, and Asbestos, $31.60.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, CHICAGO, AUG. 23.

We were right about Easy, for old man Fisher's boy booted him home at a fair price, and Little America galloped home as predicted, still pal, the going here couldn't be tougher and a miracle man would have a hard time beating the card. The riders are just about as bad as the horses. One day they look like Tod Sloans, and can hardly sit on a horse the next. May be "depression" has them, too. Good luck boy. Yours,

BILL.

FIRST RACE—Maiden 2-year-olds, again! If there are none in this bunch that have been hiding all this time, CHAT EAGLE should get home. The rest of the hounds are not worth a peck of oats. MICHIGAN LAD and SWINHAVEN may do something worth while, but I doubt it.

SECOND RACE—PANCHIO, with a good boy up, should defeat DON ROMIRO and OUTER HARBOR in this 6½-furlong affair. TOMBEREAU has early speed, but does not fancy the route.

THIRD RACE—Do not believe that PIGEON HOLE can concede so much weight to BOARD WALKER. I look for PIGEON HOLE to finish second, with LADY GIBSON in the third hole.

FOURTH RACE—MONK'S STAR in his present form will be hard to beat. NORTH MILL and HOPE TO DO will be knocking at the door.

FIFTH RACE—WATCH HIM came to life with a bang his last start. Will be a good price and may repeat. PLAYDALE and IMPISH for what's left.

SIXTH RACE—Here's one that you had better let run for the end book. I can give no reason for selecting the winner. BARNEY SEXTON may repeat, followed by BLUE LAW and WISE LEE.

SEVENTH RACE—MORE POWER and Jockey Mel Lewis may be the winning combination. QUIBBLER and RIFF RAFF will be thereabouts.

EIGHTH RACE—If you insist on playing every race on the card then try BATTLING ON, CHIP and LUCKY CARTER for place and show.

Trading in Climbing Stocks Second Heaviest Since 1930

Average Gain Is 1.2 Points in Day's Turnover of 4,570,295 Shares.

New York, Aug 23 (A.P.).—The bull campaign in stocks again reached violent proportions today, attracting a large volume of profit-taking in the afternoon, and while final prices were under the day's best, there were numerous net gains of 1 to 3 points.

The turnover reached 4,570,295 shares, the largest, with the exception of the 5,500,000-share turnover of August 8, since the autumn of 1930. The bull drive shifted from the rails to utilities and industrials, and several issues were pushed into new high ground for the autumn recovery, although a number of the leaders met considerable selling around the peak levels reached two weeks ago.

The bullish demonstrations in shares rotated from group to group, with particular activity developing in some of the farm implements, metals, oil and lower-priced industrials.

Some conservative quarters in Wall street, however, felt that the market was going ahead too rapidly, in view of such spotty improvement in general business as has yet materialized, which feeling promoted active profit taking. Some shares showed losses of a point or so for a time in the afternoon, but there was a markup in the final few minutes.

U. S. Steel closed up only a fraction, after showing a temporary loss of a point. American Telephone closed off a small fraction, after having shown a temporary gain of more than 2. In the rails, such recent firm features as New York Central, New Haven and Canadian Pacific eased off fractionally.

International Harvester was a strong spot, rising 3 points in a large turnover, and closing close to the best.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Trading was active and prices were firm on overnight strength in Wall street, which stimulated transatlantic issues. Textile shares also benefited from the hopeful feeling of the outcome of the cotton dispute. Mining shares, gilt-edged securities and Argentine rails also advanced. The closing was firm.

Paris—The bourse acted favorably under the influence of the strength in Wall street. Domestic issues shared in the advance. Rentes were also higher and the closing was firm.

Berlin—Apparently unaffected by the strained political situation the boerse continued extremely dull. Slight losses were partially recovered at the close.

BONDS CLIMB AGAIN AFTER PROFIT SALES

Trading Volume Reaches $19,595,000, in Rise of Seven-tenths.

New York, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—The bond market again soared toward the heights today and, in the face of heavy profit-taking in the speculative rails, retained substantial gains.

Sales totaled $19,595,000, the largest aggregate since last December, and the average for 60 corporate loans advanced seven-tenths of a point, and was less than a point under the high mark for the year. The average for 20 principal utilities attained a new 1932 top.

Railroad issues set the market pace throughout most of the session, many of the low-priced loans advancing from 1 to 5 or more points in broad trading. In the last hour, however, a number of the fast movers gave way to realizing and closed fractionally lower on the day. Others resisted the profit takers and held advances ranging from 1 to as high as 12 points.

The foreign section rallied in various groups, led by issues of Argentina, Brazil, Buenos Aires, Chile, El Salvador, France, Hungary, Finland, New South Wales, Norway and Japan.

The United States Government list was comparatively quiet and moderately firm.

Austria Cuts Bank Rate.

Vienna, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—The National Bank of Austria reduced its discount rate today from 7 per cent to 6 per cent.

Buying of Canadian Pacific Is Feature on Exchange

New York, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Heavy buying of Canadian Pacific capital stock was a feature of trading on the New York Stock Exchange today.

The stock advanced around $1 a share to close to $18, continuing its sharp upward ascent of yesterday when on a turnover of more than 131,000 shares, it moved up over $2 a share.

The stock closed at $16.87 a share in later trading, after a wave of profit-taking.

CURB MOVES HIGHER ALONG WIDER FRONT

540,000-Share Trading Volume Adds Rises of 1 to 4 Points.

New York, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—The Curb Market today followed up its rally by extending its gains on a broad front, a number of leading stocks advancing 1 to around 4 points.

Sales totaled 540,000 shares, against 320,000 yesterday, or within striking distance of the heavy trading days of a fortnight ago. There was considerable profit-taking in the afternoon, but the list held much of its advance.

The industrials again trailed the utilities in point of popularity, but nevertheless scored some good gains. Humble Oil was a stellar performer, running up to a new high for 1932 and closing at 52, for a net gain of 4 points. Gulf was 70½.

Among the utilities, Electric Bond & Share common gained 1⅛, to 26½, while the two preferred issues moved up 2 to 3¼ points to establish new 1932 highs for the 6 and 5 per cent securities, respectively.

In the lower-priced brackets, 1932 highs were made or equaled by Central States Electric and American Superpower.

U. S. Increases Export Of Grain During Week

(Associated Press.)

Grain exports last week from the United States amounted to 1,492,000 bushels against 1,433,000 bushels the previous week, and 2,424,000 bushels during the corresponding week of last year.

Canadian grains exported last week from United States ports amounted to 276,000 bushels against 487,000 bushels the previous week.

WHEAT LOSES PART OF EARLY ADVANCES

Market Is Slightly Higher at Close; Corn and Oats Record Gains.

Chicago, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Wheat reacted today and in the final hour of trading lost almost all of the gains registered earlier. Support from Eastern operators, which had appeared on minor reactions all day, vanished and prices dropped almost to last night's finish before resting orders halted the decline. The general tone of the market during most of the sessions was stronger than for some time. Corn and oats were chiefly swayed by wheat and provisions ruled firm. Wheat closed weak, but ¼ to ½ higher than yesterday's finish; corn, ⅛ to ⅜ up; oats, ⅛ advanced, and provisions mixed; lard, 5-13 up and bellies, 5 down.

Wheat was dominated almost entirely by securities and cotton, although there was much in the news of an encouraging nature. Liverpool quotations were firm, closing 1@1½ higher. Crop news from France and Germany was favorable, but was largely offset by discouraging advices from eastern and southeastern Europe. Late official estimates place the Roumanian wheat crop at 61,000,000 bushels less than last year with the crop in Jugoslavia reduced to a point where there will probably be no exports.

Russian export offers were reported withdrawn, presumably because of the disappointing progress of harvest operations.

Provisions were generally firm despite weakness of hogs.

ASSET GAINS LISTED BY NORTH AMERICAN

Utility Company Sets Value at $878,637,266; New Plant Planned.

By THOMAS W. CAHILL.

Property and plant of North American and subsidiary companies, including Washington Railway & Electric and Potomac Electric Power Cos., had a valuation of $675,040,332.31 on June 30, the quarterly letter of President Edwin Gruhl, revealed yesterday. Total assets were $878,637,266.49, as against those of $870,091,786.98 on June 30, 1931.

In that part of his letter dealing with the District of Columbia, President Gruhl states:

"Potomac Electric Power Co., of Washington, D. C., has purchased a plot of ground at Buzzards Point, the junction of the Potomac and Anacostia rivers, for the erection of a new steam electric generating plant.

"Further provision has been made for supplementing the steam electric generating capacity of the Potomac Electric system by interconnection with the Susquehanna River hydro-electric plant of the Safe Harbor Power Corporation, which is owned jointly by the Consolidated Gas, Electric Light & Power Co., of Baltimore, and the Pennsylvania Water & Power Co.

"This outside source of power supply will be available during 1933 upon the completion of a 220,000-volt transmission line, 23 miles in length, from Washington to Ellicott City, Md., interconnecting the Potomac company's lines with those of the Baltimore system."

President Maurice Otterback, of the Anacostia Bank, returned to work yesterday after six weeks' absence. He has been at Atlantic City recuperating from a recent illness.

COTTON PRICES RISE ON TRADE'S BUYING

December Sells at 7.91, as Market Advances 5 to 6 Points.

New York, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Cotton made further slight gains today on trade buying and covering. December closed at 7.91, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 5 to 6 points. October sold at 7.78; March, 8.18.

The report of the Census Bureau showing 251,182 bales of cotton ginned from this year's crop prior to August 16, against 90,608 last year and 572,810 two years ago was not regarded particularly significant with reference to the probable size of the crop, and had little or no apparent effect on the market.

Liverpool cables reported local and Bombay buying on the advance in that market and said that while labor troubles were restricting business in cotton goods, an early settlement of the disputes was expected. Exports today, 7,017 making 297,517 so far this season.

DECLINE'S END SEEN BEFORE NEW YEAR

Experts Make Prediction in Face of Further Heavy Income Losses.

New York, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—While reports of domestic corporations for the first half of this year indicate all industry will show a decline of approximately 75 per cent for the period, some financial observers now believe there may be a partial reversal of the trend before 1932 draws to a close.

The severity of the recent decline is shown by the reports of 400 representative industrial organizations, which, statistical experts found, disclosed a net income for the first six months of 1932 of $37,744,000 against a total of $327,197,000 in the first half of last year.

The deficit of 51 railroads in the corporate group reached the substantial total of $90,669,000 and represented an aggregate reduction of $119,432,000 from the net return of $28,763,000 in the similar 1931 period. Reports of 33 utilities showed combined net earnings of $208,354,000 compared with $230,044,000 in the first half of 1931.

"Preliminary evidence for the current quarter," the Standard Statistics Co. states, "indicates that, while absolute net income will be even smaller than the drastically reduced results for the second quarter, the relative comparison with results in the like period of 1931 should show significant improvement. In short, it is probable that even in this ultimate index of business results, a reversal of the adverse comparative performance is close at hand."

Daily Crude Oil Yield Cut 33,400 Barrels

New York, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States decreased 33,400 barrels in the week ended August 20, totaling 2,110,800 barrels, the American Petroleum Institute's weekly summary indicates.

Refineries representing 95.1 per cent of estimated total capacity, operated at 58.1 per cent of their capacity, reported daily average runs of crude oil to stills as 2,128,300 barrels.

GRID PRICES LOWER IN DIXIE

Cheaper Admission, Graduated Scale Are Planned.

(Associated Press.)

SEVERAL Virginia colleges already have decided to recognize the effect of depression on football gate receipts by lowering admission prices and others have plans under consideration for lowered prices or a graduated scale for seats, an Associated Press survey shows.

Last season the Univerity of Richmond was pleased with the result of "scaling" the stadium and varying the prices of seats. This year it will continue this policy, with some seats selling for $1 or less at its "big" games, but will make a flat charge of $1 for the first three games on the home field. A number of inquiries received from athletic authorities at other schools has indicated interest in the Richmond institution's plan.

No Changes Planned At V. M. I.

Among other schools already decided on education this year are Virginia Military Institute, which will leave the top prices unchanged, but will offer less desirable seats at prices ranging down to $1. And Virginia Polytechnic Institute, which has yet to fix its policy for home games, but plans substantial reductions in prices for the William and Mary game at Richmond and the V. M. I. game at Roanoke.

Washington and Lee sports officials say they wil make charges for games there conform to those asked by other Southern Conference schools in this section. No change is contemplated at present by the University of Virginia.

Scott Trophy Match At Quantico Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Quantico, Va., Aug. 23.—More than 200 civilians, National Guardsmen and regular servicemen will compete in the Leech Cup and Scott Trophy rifle matches to be contested here today under the auspices of the National Rifle Association. The shoot has attracted the unusually large number of marksmen because of the fact that there will be no national matches held this year.

The Leech Cup event, which was inaugurated in 1875, will be fired at distances of 800, 900 and 1,000 yards. Following the morning contests, the National Rifle Association members' match will be fired in the afternoon. All are 30-caliber rifle events and three are of the usual Camp Perry national matches.

Considine Advances To Tennis Semifinals

Frank Shore and Bob Considine will meet tomorrow in the semifinal round of the Capital City League tennis tournament to decide one finalist in the race for the title now held by Anthony Latona, who meets the winner of a quarter-final round match between Gene Hermann and Stan Haney.

Considine reached the semifinal round yesterday by beating Muscoe Garnett, 6—4, 6—3. Today at 4 o'clock, at Henry Park, the defending doubles champions, Pat Deck and Bill Seidell meet Stan Haney and Hugh Trigg, while at 5 o'clock Fred Sendel and Alan Staubly tackle Frank Shore and Anthony Latona.

600 Hopefuls Report To Cardinals' School

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Approximately 600 youths between 17 and 22 years old, from Ohio, Kentucky, Michigan and West Virginia, reported at the Columbus Red Birds' stadium today for the two weeks' baseball school sponsored by the St. Louis National League Club.

Fred Hunter, Cardinal coach, took charge. The boys will be taught fundamentals and given training that may fit the more proficient for careers in professional baseball.

G. O. P. OLD-TIMERS PLAY.

International Brotherhood of Bookbinders Team will play a picked team of stars of yesteryear today at 5:15 p. m. on Diamond No. 9. Oldfield and O'Brien will be the old-timers' battery. Others who will appear are Leeky, Bohne, Maloney, Cooke, McDonald, Lyons, Parker and Day. Jim Conroy will call balls and strikes.

HOWITZER GIANTS WIN.

The Howitzer Giants sprang a surprise yesterday, winning over the Fredericksburg Elks, 6 to 5, in a hotly contested game played at Fredericksburg. Grubb, with three hits, led the winning attack.

catch. The second-sacker, though, was in no position to make a good peg to the plate.

Reynolds did not have to move to take Averill's liner in the sixth.

Porter did an acrobatic stunt in the seventh which gave the fans a kick. He dropped his cap and tried to catch it while running out a tap, and as a result stumbled over the first sack and turned a complete somersault.

Bluege's short looper in the seventh bounded over the field boxes under the feet of the Nats in the bull pen and was limited to two bases by the umpires. Needless to say, Porter received no help from the bull pen gang in trying to get to the ball. This cost the Nats another run as Kuhel, on first at the time, was held at third. Had he scored, extra innings would not have been necessary.

Grobmeier Meets Steele on Park Mat

Bout Features Five-Match Card Tomorrow; Hickman vs. Plummer.

Foolhardy enough to accept, Fred Grobmeier has taken advantage of an alleged offer by Ray Steele to meet any of the bruisers now appearing on Joe Turner's weekly rassling shows at Griffith Stadium and will match his slightly anemic frame against the 220-pound barrel of muscles from California tomorrow night.

The Steele-Grobmeier match, which is expected to put Steele high up in the running with Garibaldi and McMillen for a Londos match, heads a card of four other exhibitions. The semiwindup brings together rough Rudy Dusek against supple-limbed Berto Asserati.

Preliminaries have to do with Herman Hickman vs. Lou Plummer, Frank Brunowicz vs. Pat O'Shocker and Son Jennings vs. John Maxos.

The customary rule of women free with paying escorts will prevail.

No Funds Available, D. C. May Lose Regatta

The directors of the President's Cup regatta, scheduled to be held on the Potomac River September 16 and 17, have issued a call for subscriptions from Washingtonians to make possible the holding of the races here.

Expenses of the last President's Cup regatta amounted to $4,000, which sum has not as yet been raised by the committee on finance, headed by James A. Councilor.

Close to 50,000 saw the races last year, which resulted in the death of one of the contestants when his careening boat struck a piece of flotsam in the river.

M'MAHON TENNIS VICTOR.

Defeating Ben Norton in straight sets, John J. McMahon, yesterday won the tennis tournament conducted by the personnel of the Supervising Architects' Office played at the Kenwood Country Club. The scores were 6—4, 6—3, 6—4. The winner was runner-up in the tournament held two years ago. About 20 players competed.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

A TEMPORARY panic was created among the rural householders of Devonshire, February 8, 1855, when they awoke the morning after a heavy snow, and found tracks of mysterious origin stretching for 100 miles throughout the district. From fifteen different towns and rural settlements came independent reports of the strange hoof-like trail over and about their homes. The prints resembled those of a donkey but, instead of being staggered, they were in a straight line—and were but 8 inches apart.

More mysterious than the shape of the tracks was their route. They crossed haystacks, houses and other obstacles that no donkey could scale. At one point the tracks led into the water at the estuary of the Exe, emerging on the other side, 2 miles away.

Many explanations were offered, but none was accepted by the residents of the district who, having never seen anything like them, decided that they were made by the devil himself. A strange coincidence in the mystery was uncovered by later investigation. Seven years earlier, Admiral Sir James Ross, in a book describing his exploration on Kerguelen Island, in the South Indian Ocean, told of finding strange hoofmarks in the snow. The descriptions and eye-witness drawings of these two sets of tracks were compared—and found to be almost exactly the same.

Sir James could not explain his discovery; the people of Devonshire could only point to the devil.

THEATER EMPLOYES FACING WAGE SLASH

Big Reduction in Personnel Also Is Possibility With Contract Near End.

A general wage scale reduction and possibility of heavy lay-offs are faced by organized theater employes as the end of the one-year agreement with owners draws near.

Projectionists have already agreed to salary cuts running on the average from 10 to 15 per cent, it was made known yesterday. This includes the operators in all the neighborhood and smaller movie houses as well as the large first-run theaters.

Stage hands have agreed to a 7 per cent cut with regard to those members of the union employed in the legitimate houses here—the National and Belasco—it was announced yesterday by union officials after conferences with the Erlanger and Schubert interests.

Conferences are still being carried on between representatives of the stage hands and the Loew and Warner Brothers' interests in New York. John T. Hurley, president of the stage hands local here, returned from New York yesterday after attending some of the parleys.

The stage hands, among whose ranks are included the electricians, are asked to agree to a 25 per cent slash and an approximate 50 per cent cut in man power. Hurley said his organization was willing to agree to a 15 per cent wage reduction but would stubbornly resist efforts for further wage lowering and curtailment of man power. Strong hope for a compromise was expressed, however.

Musicians have been asked to take a 25 per cent cut in the movie houses and a one-third slash in the legitimate theaters here. Union officials last night said they would oppose such a demand vigorously. In at least three downtown movie houses last year musicians took a wage cut and many lost jobs when two large theaters discontinued orchestras.

All of the groups involved have one-year agreements which expire August 31. All of the groups are also inter-affiliated and in the event of a walk-out—which is not expected—would take universal action.

Group Is Named To Study Rates

Chamber Committee Takes Up Employes' Compensation Changes.

A special committee of the law and legislation committee of the Washington Chamber of Commerce was named yesterday by Dr. George C. Havenner, chairman, to inquire into proposed increases in the employes' compensation rates in the District of Columbia. The group was appointed after the larger committee had held a meeting yesterday on the subject.

Representatives of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association were present, as were representatives of the Washington Real Estate Board, the Washington Automotive Trade Association, the Building Trades Employers Association, Motor Vehicle Owners Association, Laundry-Dry Cleaning Owners Association, the Typographical Union and the Builders and Manufacturers Exchange.

Information was presented with regard to the effect the proposed changes would have. General agreement was voiced that the rate increase was so considerable that careful study should be made to insure that Washington rates are based on Washington experience that such rates are fair, and that adequate machinery should be available to prevent excessive charges if and when found to exist.

Former Capital Cleric Leaves $98,224 Estate

An appraisal of his will filed in Brooklyn, N. Y., yesterday, disclosed that the Rev. Joseph G. Williamson, former Washington minister, left an estate of $98,224 gross and $92,818 net. Mr Williamson died March 12 of this year.

A sum of $77,687 was left to his wife, Mrs. Lide E. Williamson, also of this city. His daughter, Mrs. Estelle W. Douglas, of 3133 Connecticut avenue northwest, received $12,000. The residue will become a trust fund for two grandsons.

Halt in Wage Cuts Urged on Printers

Craftsmen in Convention Told to Prepare for Business Upturn.

Building up of plant equipment and economizing through efficiency rather than by salary and personnel reductions were urged before the International Association of Printing House Craftsmen by Philip J. McAteer, of Boston, at their convention at Wardman Park yesterday.

Mr. McAteer urged the members to recognize the mistakes of the past and prepare themselves for future competition. Predicting that the immediate future will see a return of printing prosperity, he warned that the industry of the future will be a highly competitive one.

Other speakers at yesterday's session included Fred J. Hartman, director of the department of education of the United Typothetae of America, and Ira D. Pilliard, of Milwaukee. The annual banquet and ball of the association was held last night. The convention will be concluded today.

Plans for Big Ball Verified by Police

Glassford to Be Master of Ceremonies at First Annual Event.

There is no "racketeering" about first annual police and firemen's ball which will be held on Labor Day.

On Monday police issued a warning against persons who were attempting to fleece Washington residents through a charity racket. Yesterday police headquarters received several telephone call from persons who inquired if the projected ball was legitimate.

The ball is genuine and will be attended by high police and fire officials. Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford will be master of ceremonies.

AIR CRASH REPORT BY U. S. DUE TODAY

Airport Officials Blame Death of Three Near Alexandria on Controls.

A Department of Commerce report is expected today on the cause of a fatal airplane accident at Hybla Valley Airport near Alexandria late Monday, which took the lives of an amateur pilot and his two passengers.

P. H. Hanscom, inspector of the aeronautics branch of the department, started his investigation of the crash shortly after it occurred. Unofficially, airport officials blamed the accident on failure to disconnect the dual controls with which the plane was equipped. They said one of the passengers must have clutched the control stick in front, sending the ship into its fatal spin.

The victims of the crash were James F. Howell, 29, of 320 Eleventh street northwest, clerk in the District Supreme Court; Miss Ann White, 22, of 1841 Columbia road northwest, and Frederick W. Ehrenfeld, 21, librarian of the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals. Howell piloted the plane.

The three victims were trapped in the plane and were burned beyond recognition in sight of friends and attendants at the airport. The bodies were not recovered until two hours after the crash.

Howell's remains were cremated yesterday and his ashes were taken by his sister, Mrs. Eugenia Cheap, who was here on a visit, to their home in Mississippi. Funeral services for Miss White will be held this morning at 11 o'clock in Bealeton, Va., the home of her parents. The body of Ehrenfeld was shipped last night to his parents' home in Greensburg, Pa., where funeral services will be held.

District Surveyor Reports for Year

Reveals City Plans to Dispose of Realty for Which It Has No Use.

A detailed report of the year's activities, voluminously illustrated with charts and tables, was submitted yesterday to the District Commissioners by Melvin C. Hazen, District surveyor. The report covers the fiscal year 1932, which ended June 30, last.

The report reveals that a survey is being made of all District-owned land with a view to preparing a bill authorizing the Commissioners to sell or transfer to Federal departments all property for which the District has no further use.

The total amount of damages awarded in condemnation cases was $1,069,131.48, and the total amount assessed as benefits was $325,227.39. The surveyor points out that projects for street and alley extensions were restricted because of a shortage of funds.

Held for Grand Jury Action; Collision Fatal to Boy Called Accident.

The coroner's jury yesterday held Viola Clay, colored, 334 K street southwest, for the grand jury in the death of Arthur Scott, 38, colored, 473 L street southwest, who was burned to death at the K street address Saturday.

Scott's clothes were ignited by an oil lamp, which was said to have been thrown by the Clay woman.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death in the collision fatal to Ralph Smith, 14, colored, near the boy's home, 1814 Wiltberger street northwest, Monday; William Ward, 30, 1322 Riggs street northwest, driver of the vehicle which struck Smith's bicycle, was released.

Clothing valued at $75 was stolen from a tailor shop at 309 H street northwest, it was reported yesterday by Jacob Rosin, proprietor.

BARGAGNI PLANNING PARADE INNOVATIONS

Firemen's Fete Chief Says New and Bigger Groups Will Participate.

With Labor Day and the annual firemen's parade approaching, Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, annual maestro of the marching procession of smoke-eating splendor, yesterday announced participation this year of new features which he hopes will add to his project of making the yearly event a bigger and better one.

The crack Havre de Grace hose team, Maryland champion in 1931, will be among the marchers, 65 strong. Accompanying the Havre de Grace reelers will be a large band from their home town.

Sergt. Bargagni also said that a Scotch bagpipe band would be among the musical outfits in the parade. This aggregation will hail from Marcus Hook, Pa., and is looking forward to competing for the prize for the best appearing band in the parade. The Scotch costume kilts will distinguish the Marcus Hook organization.

Among other delegations will be a large one composed of officers of the Pennsylvania State Firemen's Association. This group has reserved quarters at the Willard Hotel.

Webb Alumni Fete Rear Admiral Rock

Navy Bureau Chief Guest at Dinner; Will Head Institute.

Rear Admiral George H. Rock, chief constructor of the United States Navy and chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repair, Navy Department, was the guest of honor at a dinner last night given at the Kennedy-Warren by the Washington alumni of Webb Institute of Naval Architecture.

Admiral Rock, it was announced, will soon retire from the Navy and take over the presidency of the institute. He is a graduate of the Naval Academy and received his degree in naval architecture from the University of Glasgow, Scotland, in 1892.

In 1929 he was appointed by President Hoover as chief of the bureau he still heads. Awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for services in the World War, Admiral Rock was a delegate to the international conference on safety of life at sea in London.

Webb Institue is one of three American colleges teaching naval architecture and marine engineering. Three graduates were appointed to represent this country at the international load line conference in London in 1930, the outcome of which was the present law regulating the depth to which merchant vessels can be loaded.

Bridge on Upper Potomac Is Urged

Fairfax Chamber Petitions Pollard to Ask R. F. C. to Aid Project.

The board of directors of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce has decided to reduce the annual dues.

A resolution was adopted addressed to Gov. John G. Pollard urging him to ask for a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to erect a bridge at Great Falls on the Potomac, instead of at Dalgren, Va., as is contemplated by the State executive. This would route the north and south traffic around the District of Columbia and would call for the construction of a road from the Richmond highway via Spottsylvania, Va., courthouse, north to the new bridge, according to the plans outlined last year by Chairman H. G. Shirley, of the State Highway Commission.

The highway commission will be urged to apply the gap fund next year to assist in widening the Washington-Richmond highway from Fredericksburg, Va., to Alexandria and any other funds which might become available. This action is in accordance with the movement which has been under way for several years by the Alexandria and Fairfax County trade bodies.

DENISHAWN DANCERS IN PUBLIC PROGRAM

Accompanied by Navy Band in Presentation Given at Sylvan Theater.

Grace of the Washington Denishawn dance group mingled with the inspiring music of the United States Navy Band in a program at the Sylvan Theater last night, presented by the Community Center Department, the office of public buildings and parks and the National Capital civic fund.

The program was the first of the three concluding presentations of the season.

A well-balanced program, beginning with Benter's "Longwood Gardens" march and ending with a medley of the Bavarian native airs kept a large audience in rapture for nearly two hours. Birley Gardener, cornetist, played a solo, "Stars in a Velvety Sky," which called for several encores.

The Denishawn dance group, composed of some of the Capital's most talented terpsichorean artists, thrilled the spectators with exotic fantasies and simple pastoral steps. The dancers included: Amalie Preische, Nancy Brock, Wilma Dinowitzer, Marian Chace, Lester Shafer, Louise Ward, Virginia Weeks, Lois Balcom, Betty Elfelt, Gertrude Ruzicha, Dorothy Perle and Ruth Raine.

Lieut. Charles Benter directed the band, assisted by Alexander Morris. Wilma Semple and Victor Neal accompanied the dancers. Troop 69 of the District Boy Scouts, directed by Scoutmaster Thomas A. King, wer ushers. The next summer festival program will be Friday night when the Estelle Wentworth opera group will present Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta "Pinafore."

Private M. T. Clark, who with Private George B. Reid, mans the Fourth Precinct radio car, suffered lacerations to his hand and face when he fell after being tripped by several colored persons. The policeman answered a call to Four-and-a-Half and I streets southwest, where a man was said to be brandishing a gun.

Arriving, Private Clark leaped from the machine and started in pursuit of a suspect. As he ran a group of men intervened and threw him to the street. The crowd fled after aiding the suspect to escape.

"Shooting" Proves To Be Road Crash

Two Persons Are Injured; One Held on Charge of Reckless Driving.

Two persons were injured and one of them held on a reckless driving charge following a head-on collision between a sedan and a Chestnut Farms Dairy truck early yesterday in the 1800 block of Foxhall road northwest.

The loud noise of the accident and the sudden appearance of a man, bleeding, on their front porch, led neighbors to send in a "shooting" call, which brought extra police to the scene.

Carl Daily, 21, of Vienna, Va., the truck driver, was badly cut about his shoulders by the edges of the heavy milk crates which piled about him in the crash. Hugh B. Mullen, 21, of Clarendon, Va., was treated for a cut over his right eye and later charged with reckless driving. Both machines were demolished.

Papers for Extradition Lacking, Man Is Freed

After being held in District Jail for six weeks, awaiting extradition papers from the governor of Maryland, James Monk, wanted in Prince Georges County for manslaughter, yesterday was released from custody by order of Supreme Court Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue.

Through Attorney James K. Hughes, Monk claimed he was being detained illegally, since it was unreasonable to expect him to wait more than six weeks for extradition papers from Annapolis. Justice O'Donoghue concurred in this view and ordered him released. There was no explaination for extradition papers not being sent here.

LEFFLER STILL TOPS MODEL PLANE FIELD

Two Former Tournament Marks Broken to Provide Thrills for Crowds.

George Leffler, youthful hero of the first day's indoor events in the annual District model aircraft tournament, yesterday continued to lead the field in the second session of the meet at Bolling Field.

The outdoor contests provided a series of thrills for the scores of spectators present, with the shattering of two former tournament records.

Leffler, entered in the ace class, smashed the first record in the hand-launched scientific events. His tiny plane soared for 24 minutes and 41 seconds before it was lost in the river. The previous record was set by Jack Park, also a contestant this year, with his flight of 24 minutes and 32 seconds in 1931.

The second record was broken by Morris Krucoff, of the pilot class. His Dynamic model flew 25 seconds. This beat the record of Frank Salisbury, who flew his plane 15 seconds in 1930.

Absence of high winds greatly aided the contests. Leffler's plane and another which had dropped into the river, were later recovered by Lieut. T. F. Coombs, of the Naval Air Station. Maj. H. C. Davidson, commandant of Bolling Field, was an interested spectator.

Leffler also led his class in the dynamic event, setting a mark of 16 3-5 seconds. He gave way to Jack Park in the seaplane events. Park's plane flew 6 minutes and 4 seconds.

At the close of the record day's events the field stood as follows:

Ace class—Leffler, 26 points; Everetts Meeks, 17; Park, 14; Harold Francke, 9; Jack Friedman, 7; Blair Benentt, 7; Bob Wiehle, 6, and Edward Grannis, 3.

Pilot class—Krucoff, 23; Morris Arkin, 22; Tom Hagner, 17; Bill Kemon, 14, and Norman Zipkin, 10.

Junior pilot class—David Fegan, 21; Gilbert Southworth, 18; Karl Clarle, 14; Edward Arkin, 14; Darwin Krucoff, 7; Harry Heimer, 7; Milton Silverman, 3, and August Tolman, 1.

SENATOR KING LAUDS WOMEN IN ADDRESS

Tells Democratic Club They Are More Courageous Than Men.

"Women, as a rule, have more sense than men," declared Senator William H. King, of Utah, in an address last night before the Women's Democratic Club here. "They are more courageous than men and more loyal."

"I would follow along with the women every time," said Senator King, when they address themselves to a question." He said that when he entered politics as a young man one of his first acts in an important campaign was to select 100 women to participate in his drive for election.

As a young judge, said Senator King, he sat in numerous divorce cases. Only twice, he said, did he sit in on a case in which the woman was wrong.

The Utah senator spoke for nearly two hours before the local women Democrats, bitterly attacked the Hoover, Coolidge and Harding administrations and extolling the works of former President Wilson, including the latter's advocacy of a League of Nations.

Senator King concluded his address with warm praise for Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic nominee for the Presidency, telling of war-time association with Roosevelt when he was Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

PHONE TESTIMONY MAY CLOSE TODAY

Roberts Challenges Statements Exchanges Strategically Located.

The presentation of testimony by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. in the telephone rate inquiry being conducted by the Public Utilities Commission is expected to be concluded today or tomorrow after a reproduction cost chart is submitted to counteract a similar exhibit by the commission.

R. A. Van Orsdel, counsel, and Harry Gretz, auditor, were excused from yesterday's hearing to complete preparation of the reproduction cost exhibits for presentation today.

William A. Roberts, special counsel for the commission, yesterday afternoon launched a vigorous attack against the telephone company's contention that there is no obsolence or inadequacy in its equipment or plant until some building or equipment is actually retired.

Cross-examining Roy W. Prince, chief engineer of the telephone company, Mr. Roberts challenged the statements of the witness that all exchanges are strategically located with reference to present and future population trends and that all are adequate. He said the Atlantic-Lincoln exchanges are at present burdened with serving the entire Anacostia district, the Naval Air Station, Bolling Field, as well as the Northeast and Southeast areas, and that all lines run directly to the exchange from each subscriber.

Counteracting testimony that each exchange was located in the exact center of the service, Mr. Roberts showed by maps that the Lincoln-Emerson exchange service extended in one place as much as five times as far as the West exchange's longest line.

Mr. Prince took the stand yesterday morning to counteract testimony of Thomas R. Tate, commission valuation engineer, that deductions should be made in a general valuation on certain land of the telephone company not now in use.

Citizens Urged to Push President's Regatta

Citizens were urged to give full support to the President's cup regatta to be held September 16 and 17 in resolutions adopted yesterday by the executive committee of the Greater National Capital committee of the Washington Board of Trade.

Loss of the regatta would be a calamity from a civic standpoint, it was said. Curtis Hodges, executive director of the Greater National Capital committee, reported that the Washington Air Derby in which the committee cooperated with the Washington Air Derby Association, Inc., had been a great success. Mr. Hodges also reported progress of plans for the Washington Halloween celebration.
